Celebrating the life of Christina Leigh Linderman and the legacy she leaves behind

By Anusha Alapati, Editor in Chief

The University of Alabama-Huntsville student passed away on Sunday after her battle with cancer was documented on social media.

"It was an honor to be a part of the service and to say goodbye to Christina," said Dr. Leigh Linderman Jackson, Christina's sister-in-law and her husband, Skylar, both expressed their support and gratitude for the outpouring of love and support from the community.

"Skylar and Christina had started a powerful youth ministry. I have no doubt they will continue to seek to further the King," said Ashley Linderman Jackson, who is also a graduate of UAH.

"She was the girl who was your best friend right after you met her. She was caring, selfless, happy, and loved a laugh that would carry for miles. She loved God, her husband, her family and friends, and would do anything for them," said Amanda Lang, Christina's best friend.

Clipped from the Chargertimes, the website of UAH students, thisObituary was written by Anusha Alapati, a graduate student in the Political Science Department.

The UAH Political Science Club is said to have been "a powerful youth ministry," according to Ashley Linderman Jackson, who is also a graduate of UAH.

"It was an honor to be a part of the service and to say goodbye to Christina," said Dr. Leigh Linderman Jackson, Christina's sister-in-law and her husband, Skylar, both expressed their support and gratitude for the outpouring of love and support from the community.

"Skylar and Christina had started a powerful youth ministry. I have no doubt they will continue to seek to further the King," said Ashley Linderman Jackson, who is also a graduate of UAH.

"She was the girl who was your best friend right after you met her. She was caring, selfless, happy, and loved a laugh that would carry for miles. She loved God, her husband, her family and friends, and would do anything for them," said Amanda Lang, Christina's best friend.

Clipped from the Chargertimes, the website of UAH students, thisObituary was written by Anusha Alapati, a graduate student in the Political Science Department.

The UAH Political Science Club is said to have been "a powerful youth ministry," according to Ashley Linderman Jackson, who is also a graduate of UAH.

"It was an honor to be a part of the service and to say goodbye to Christina," said Dr. Leigh Linderman Jackson, Christina's sister-in-law and her husband, Skylar, both expressed their support and gratitude for the outpouring of love and support from the community.

"Skylar and Christina had started a powerful youth ministry. I have no doubt they will continue to seek to further the King," said Ashley Linderman Jackson, who is also a graduate of UAH.

"She was the girl who was your best friend right after you met her. She was caring, selfless, happy, and loved a laugh that would carry for miles. She loved God, her husband, her family and friends, and would do anything for them," said Amanda Lang, Christina's best friend.

Clipped from the Chargertimes, the website of UAH students, thisObituary was written by Anusha Alapati, a graduate student in the Political Science Department.

The UAH Political Science Club is said to have been "a powerful youth ministry," according to Ashley Linderman Jackson, who is also a graduate of UAH.

"It was an honor to be a part of the service and to say goodbye to Christina," said Dr. Leigh Linderman Jackson, Christina's sister-in-law and her husband, Skylar, both expressed their support and gratitude for the outpouring of love and support from the community.

"Skylar and Christina had started a powerful youth ministry. I have no doubt they will continue to seek to further the King," said Ashley Linderman Jackson, who is also a graduate of UAH.

"She was the girl who was your best friend right after you met her. She was caring, selfless, happy, and loved a laugh that would carry for miles. She loved God, her husband, her family and friends, and would do anything for them," said Amanda Lang, Christina's best friend.

Clipped from the Chargertimes, the website of UAH students, thisObituary was written by Anusha Alapati, a graduate student in the Political Science Department.

The UAH Political Science Club is said to have been "a powerful youth ministry," according to Ashley Linderman Jackson, who is also a graduate of UAH.

"It was an honor to be a part of the service and to say goodbye to Christina," said Dr. Leigh Linderman Jackson, Christina's sister-in-law and her husband, Skylar, both expressed their support and gratitude for the outpouring of love and support from the community.

"Skylar and Christina had started a powerful youth ministry. I have no doubt they will continue to seek to further the King," said Ashley Linderman Jackson, who is also a graduate of UAH.

"She was the girl who was your best friend right after you met her. She was caring, selfless, happy, and loved a laugh that would carry for miles. She loved God, her husband, her family and friends, and would do anything for them," said Amanda Lang, Christina's best friend.

Clipped from the Chargertimes, the website of UAH students, thisObituary was written by Anusha Alapati, a graduate student in the Political Science Department.

The UAH Political Science Club is said to have been "a powerful youth ministry," according to Ashley Linderman Jackson, who is also a graduate of UAH.

"It was an honor to be a part of the service and to say goodbye to Christina," said Dr. Leigh Linderman Jackson, Christina's sister-in-law and her husband, Skylar, both expressed their support and gratitude for the outpouring of love and support from the community.

"Skylar and Christina had started a powerful youth ministry. I have no doubt they will continue to seek to further the King," said Ashley Linderman Jackson, who is also a graduate of UAH.

"She was the girl who was your best friend right after you met her. She was caring, selfless, happy, and loved a laugh that would carry for miles. She loved God, her husband, her family and friends, and would do anything for them," said Amanda Lang, Christina's best friend.

Clipped from the Chargertimes, the website of UAH students, thisObituary was written by Anusha Alapati, a graduate student in the Political Science Department.

The UAH Political Science Club is said to have been "a powerful youth ministry," according to Ashley Linderman Jackson, who is also a graduate of UAH.

"It was an honor to be a part of the service and to say goodbye to Christina," said Dr. Leigh Linderman Jackson, Christina's sister-in-law and her husband, Skylar, both expressed their support and gratitude for the outpouring of love and support from the community.

"Skylar and Christina had started a powerful youth ministry. I have no doubt they will continue to seek to further the King," said Ashley Linderman Jackson, who is also a graduate of UAH.

"She was the girl who was your best friend right after you met her. She was caring, selfless, happy, and loved a laugh that would carry for miles. She loved God, her husband, her family and friends, and would do anything for them," said Amanda Lang, Christina's best friend.

Clipped from the Chargertimes, the website of UAH students, thisObituary was written by Anusha Alapati, a graduate student in the Political Science Department.

The UAH Political Science Club is said to have been "a powerful youth ministry," according to Ashley Linderman Jackson, who is also a graduate of UAH.

"It was an honor to be a part of the service and to say goodbye to Christina," said Dr. Leigh Linderman Jackson, Christina's sister-in-law and her husband, Skylar, both expressed their support and gratitude for the outpouring of love and support from the community.

"Skylar and Christina had started a powerful youth ministry. I have no doubt they will continue to seek to further the King," said Ashley Linderman Jackson, who is also a graduate of UAH.

"She was the girl who was your best friend right after you met her. She was caring, selfless, happy, and loved a laugh that would carry for miles. She loved God, her husband, her family and friends, and would do anything for them," said Amanda Lang, Christina's best friend.

Clipped from the Chargertimes, the website of UAH students, thisObituary was written by Anusha Alapati, a graduate student in the Political Science Department.

The UAH Political Science Club is said to have been "a powerful youth ministry," according to Ashley Linderman Jackson, who is also a graduate of UAH.

"It was an honor to be a part of the service and to say goodbye to Christina," said Dr. Leigh Linderman Jackson, Christina's sister-in-law and her husband, Skylar, both expressed their support and gratitude for the outpouring of love and support from the community.

"Skylar and Christina had started a powerful youth ministry. I have no doubt they will continue to seek to further the King," said Ashley Linderman Jackson, who is also a graduate of UAH.

"She was the girl who was your best friend right after you met her. She was caring, selfless, happy, and loved a laugh that would carry for miles. She loved God, her husband, her family and friends, and would do anything for them," said Amanda Lang, Christina's best friend.

Clipped from the Chargertimes, the website of UAH students, thisObituary was written by Anusha Alapati, a graduate student in the Political Science Department.
CAMPUS LIFE

Mal Hall gets big laughs from UAH students
By Claudia Mesnil-Boeaz Staff Writer

ACHE brought the comedian Mal Hall’s humorous storytelling to UAHuntsville last Wednesday for a two hour show about personal anecdotes, world people and other madon jokes.
Hall found his way into comedy unexpectedly as a college student at San Diego State University when he was interviewing with a media company. He never thought he would become a comedian, but he fell in love with the feeling of making a crowd laugh, and has since been a comedian for six years.
Hall has a lot of experience at comedy clubs and often travels to college campuses around the nation to bring his shows to students. UAH students loved Hall because he made the crowd feel like they were at his house or at a party just listening to him talk and tell funny stories. "If I do for my comedy is tall storiies and what I see everyday in a funny way," he said. Many of these stories at the events were impresed that he had been able to keep the crowd laughing and entertained for so long.

Hall’s show was unique because of the personal occupies-tion he was able to create with the crowd and his attitude toward the stories. “I love to meet entertainers like Mal because they are all fun in their own way,” Jordan Bardeau, a Freemason volunteer for ACE said.
To see his past shows and to get to know Hall you can friend him on Facebook or Mal Hall, or follow him on Twitter @Mal-Hall.

Opposing Reactions: The NRA & the White House after the Sandy Hook Elementary Shooting
By Claudia Mesnil-Boeaz Staff Writer

The nation was shocked to learn that the President’s government became deeply divided when the White House and the National Rifle Association, the gun rights group, released opposing reactions to the December Connecticut shooting.
The White House released an immediate and very strong, ordinance message that explained how stricter gun controls needed to be enforced and implemented. This gave hope to gun control advocates. However, when the event was looked at in detail, gun controls had been implemented and yet the killers were able to find loopholes in the laws or get a hold of weapons illegally.
The National Rifle Association has the support of millions of Americans who defend personal weapon possession. The NRA released a statement a week after the shooting expressing confidence for the victims of the event and advocation that schools be protected by armed men.
Controversy has followed these opposing reactions because that the present has very different solutions to the problem of safety, and the fact that this violent event was not only the very first to happen in 2012. There are as many voices for this gun, these are part of our culture, and they have protected themselves and their property in the past, but there are mentally ill people. Because of this, not only do we need to implement gun laws and possession. Existing gun laws must be enforced correctly, and gun possession must be legal and safe.

President Obama makes cabinet appointments
By Nicolas Neely Staff Writer

During a White House ceremony Jan. 7, President Obama introduced new cabinet nominees, former Secretary of Defense Robert Gates, U.S. Senator Chuck Hagel and Deputy National Security Advisor John Brennan, amid criticism from both Democratic and Republican leaders. The process of selecting the new Secretary of Defense has been in the news for quite some time, and attention has been focused on the politics of many policies related to the White House, particularly the war in Iraq. In addition, Hagel’s past comments and procedures, especially his support for the “nuclear option” in the Senate, which has been attacked by gun rights groups. Hagel has been quoted as saying that the Senate has protected guns for too long, and yet others have criticized the Senate for not doing enough to address the issue.

During his confirmation hearing, Hagel was asked to address the issue of gun control, and he responded by saying that he supports the Second Amendment, but that it is important to find a balance between personal rights and public safety. Hagel also stated that he supports universal background checks for gun purchases and the expansion of the National Instant Criminal Background Check System.

Despite these comments, Hagel’s nomination faced opposition from members of Congress and gun rights advocates, who were concerned about his stance on expanding gun control measures. Hagel’s confirmation hearing was scheduled for early February, and the Senate is expected to vote on his nomination soon.

The White House released a statement expressing its confidence in the new cabinet nominees and the importance of maintaining a strong national defense.

A leaked email that went viral on the internet has raised questions about President Obama’s decision to appoint Hagel as defense secretary.

In the email, Obama’s staff member expressed concern about Hagel’s views on the National security strategy and the war in Afghanistan. The employee wrote that Hagel’s appointment was a “no-brainer” and that the administration was “not concerned” about his stance on these issues.

The email has sparked a debate about transparency and communication within the White House. Some have criticized the leak for undermining the President’s efforts to create a “culture of integrity and accountability.”

Meanwhile, Hagel is facing pressure to address the issue of gun control, and he has said that he will work with Congress to find a solution that protects individual rights and public safety.

President Obama’s decision to appoint Hagel and Brennan has been met with mixed reactions from members of Congress and the public.

Some have praised the President’s choice, citing Hagel’s experience in national security and military affairs, as well as his strong record of bipartisanship and political moderation.

Others have criticized the appointment, expressing concern about Hagel’s views on issues such as the war in Afghanistan and his support for the National security strategy.

The Senate is expected to vote on Hagel’s nomination soon, and the outcome will likely be a key test of the President’s ability to lead a divided Congress and navigate the complex challenges facing the United States.

Photo Credit: Kelsey Crafton

Photo Credit: MCI Campus

The NRA released a statement in response to the shooting, expressing confidence in the search for the truth and the importance of protecting the rights of gun owners.

Gates, who served as defense secretary under both Bush administrations, was a strong defender of the military and a vocal advocate of the war on terror.

The President’s choice of Brennan as deputy national security advisor has been praised by many for his experience in national security and his strong record of bipartisanship.

Brennan has served as chief of staff to several presidents, including Barack Obama, and has been a vocal advocate of the war on terror.

The President’s decision to appoint both Hagel and Brennan has been met with mixed reactions from members of Congress and the public.

Some have praised the President’s choice, citing the men’s experience in national security and military affairs, as well as their strong record of bipartisanship and political moderation.

Others have criticized the appointment, expressing concern about the men’s views on issues such as the war on terror and their support for the National security strategy.

The Senate is expected to vote on the men’s nominations soon, and the outcome will likely be a key test of the President’s ability to lead a divided Congress and navigate the complex challenges facing the United States.
Tina Fey, Amy Poehler showcase comedic chemistry at Golden Globes

By Kaitlyn Zurcher

It was a dream come true for Fey and Poehler host every awards show from the Emmys to the National Dog Show would be sufficiently more entertaining with their perhaps. recreation of the film in the mountains, are are filled with obscure allusions and layered meaning, hours, Zeck the remembering, though by her father until the they wish the film had included a and walking through hellfire to with Django as an analog of with Django as an analog of the merits of wearing hoods die school," Fey sarcastically and reads aloud a piece from "the merits of wearing hoods and wearing hoods and the film does more

Everybody Has Their Badges: Gangster Squad Review

By Samuel Gibby, Staff Writer

No serious attempt at the beautiful portrayal of the civil conflict and the action was the goal. The story was a thinly veiled joke. However, I am saying this without any knowledge of the actual events the film was based on. The setting was Long Beach, the cop was a cop and the gun was a cowboy pistol and the cop who was working on heroin cases was two characters I wanted to know more about, but their stories were almost entirely cut out of the 40's. Emma Stone and Sean Penn's performances were merely passable. Admitable there are some things about this film that I did not like. There were some characters that needed character development. For instance, the gangster that uses a cowboy pistol and the cop who was working on heroin cases were two characters I wanted to know more about, but their stories were almost entirely cut out of the film. Even though this film was set in the 1940s, I wish the film had included a few more film insist. Overall, even though this is not the best gangster film I have seen, this movie is not so bad as what some other reviews would have you believe. It is a decent gangster film that I would not mind watching again.

I wish the film had included a few more film insist. Overall, even though this is not the best gangster film I have seen, this movie is not so bad as what some other reviews would have you believe. It is a decent gangster film that I would not mind watching again.

In exchange for the success and "Django Unchained," he is similar on top of his game here and the film does more

Despite its flaws, "Django Unchained" is a good film infused with more of Tarantino's style to make it a more

Charger Times | www.chargertimes.org

UAHuntsville's 8th annual fitness competition

As a result of the office of Faculty, Staff, Students, and Alumni Kicks Off January 28, 2013

Open to all Faculty, Staff, Students, and Alumni

Try Just Move It and see what it can do for you!

Copyright 2011 Daily Collegian

ChargerTimes@uah.edu
ter development. For instance, the gunslinger that uses a cowboy pistol and the cop who was a cop and the gun was a cowboy pistol and the cop who was working on heroin cases were two characters I wanted to know more about, but their stories were almost entirely cut out of the film. Even though this film was set in the 1940s, I wish the film had included a few more film insist. Overall, even though this is not the best gangster film I have seen, this movie is not so bad as what some other reviews would have you believe. It is a decent gangster film that I would not mind watching again.

In exchange for the success and "Django Unchained," he is similar on top of his game here and the film does more

Despite its flaws, "Django Unchained" is a good film infused with more of Tarantino's style to make it a more

Charger Times | www.chargertimes.org

UAHuntsville's 8th annual fitness competition

As a result of the office of Faculty, Staff, Students, and Alumni Kicks Off January 28, 2013

Open to all Faculty, Staff, Students, and Alumni

Try Just Move It and see what it can do for you!

Copyright 2011 Daily Collegian

ChargerTimes@uah.edu

UAHuntsville's 8th annual fitness competition

As a result of the office of Faculty, Staff, Students, and Alumni Kicks Off January 28, 2013

Open to all Faculty, Staff, Students, and Alumni

Try Just Move It and see what it can do for you!

Copyright 2011 Daily Collegian

ChargerTimes@uah.edu
SPORTS

Back to back wins set the Lady Chargers up for conference play on the road
By Sara McPherson
Sports Reporter

The University of Alabama-Huntsville women's basketball team won back-to-back games this week against Gulf South Conference teams to set the tone for conference play. Alabama-Huntsville lost to Delta State 70-61 on Thursday night and defeated Christian Brothers 71-61 on Saturday.

The Chargers started slow allowing CBU to jump to an early lead. They would bring the lead back within two points after a 14-2 run in which Smith dropped two consecutive three-point baskets. CBU managed to pull the lead back to eight in the final two minutes of the game and tied the game 46-46 with 14:12 left in the second half. In the next two minutes, UAH would put up an 8-6 run capitalized by a three from Shannon Reiner. The lead would then change several times allowing Delta State to gain a 56-50 lead with just over six minutes left in the contest. Hammon acted as a catalyst as he scored a 3-2 lead for the Chargers. Hammon got away the final two consecutive lay-ups, got two points on the board before Smith was given a pair of free throws. Hammon then finished the game to make the final score 101-91.

The Lady Chargers set top where they remained for the remainder of the game. The Chargers must keep up the tempo and strong defense Hammon and Hammon to help push the team past Union in a key conference matchup on the road tonight. UAH will take the court in Jacksonville, Tenn., at 6 p.m. tonight. Keep up with the action with audio from the game at uashoppers.com.

Chargers split weekend against in-conference foes
By Andy Donovan
Sports Writer

The University of Alabama-Huntsville men's basketball team had a rollercoaster weekend, narrowly missing a conference championship.

In the first period and once in the second period, the Chargers won 3-1. Sebastian Geoffrion found ways of fast breaks and make openings around the perimeter, giving some serious assistance to Bradley Beal.

On Thursday night the Chargers and the Buccaneers of Christian Brothers met for the first time this season after facing each other four times last season. The contest was a hotly contested affair, capped by a thrilling game in the Regional finals with a trip to the Elite 8 on the line. The Blue and White swept the Bucs last year, so Christian Brothers entered Spragins Hall on Thursday night with a bit of confidence. The game was a back and forth throughout much of the game, until early and forced the Chargers to battle for the entire game. The Chargers fought back and forth allowing Delta State to retain their largest lead of the game 46-49 with 14:12 left in the second half. In the next two minutes, UAH would put up an 8-6 run capitalized by a three from Shannon Reiner. The lead would then change several times allowing Delta State to gain a 56-50 lead with just over six minutes left in the contest. Hammon acted as a catalyst as he scored a 3-2 lead for the Chargers. Hammon got away the final two consecutive lay-ups, got two points on the board before Smith was given a pair of free throws. Hammon then finished the game to make the final score 101-91.

The Lady Chargers set top where they remained for the remainder of the game. The Chargers must keep up the tempo and strong defense Hammon and Hammon to help push the team past Union in a key conference matchup on the road tonight. UAH will take the court in Jacksonville, Tenn., at 6 p.m. tonight. Keep up with the action with audio from the game at uashoppers.com.

Hockey finishes strong at home
By Taylor Reed
Staff Writer

The skating is over and the ice will begin to melt in Huntsville after the Chargers finished their season in the Huntsville Ice House.

The home schedule ended on a high note as the Chargers swept the No. 6 Oklahoma Sooners in two games. On Friday night the Chargers swept the Bucs last year, so Christian Brothers entered Spragins Hall on Thursday night with a bit of confidence. The game was a back and forth throughout much of the game, until early and forced the Chargers to battle for the entire game. The Chargers fought back and forth allowing Delta State to retain their largest lead of the game 46-49 with 14:12 left in the second half. In the next two minutes, UAH would put up an 8-6 run capitalized by a three from Shannon Reiner. The lead would then change several times allowing Delta State to gain a 56-50 lead with just over six minutes left in the contest. Hammon acted as a catalyst as he scored a 3-2 lead for the Chargers. Hammon got away the final two consecutive lay-ups, got two points on the board before Smith was given a pair of free throws. Hammon then finished the game to make the final score 101-91.

The Lady Chargers set top where they remained for the remainder of the game. The Chargers must keep up the tempo and strong defense Hammon and Hammon to help push the team past Union in a key conference matchup on the road tonight. UAH will take the court in Jacksonville, Tenn., at 6 p.m. tonight. Keep up with the action with audio from the game at uashoppers.com.

NBA is in Durantula's Web
By Edgar Lopez
Staff Writer

The NBA is currently being discussed in the media as one Kevin Durant trade rumor coming from the Wizards. The Wizards are looking to trade their rookie star Bradley Beal, and other players or picks to the Grizzlies for the young shooter they have been needing to go from a good team to a contender, also the Wizards would receive a great complement to Wall's run and gun mentality with Gay's athleticism.

The player to watch this week in the Wizards John Wall, Wall, just coming off a long break from an injury that sidelined him during all of the offseason, is leading to help the struggling Wizards. Wall would be the point guard for Bradley Beal, and other players or picks to the Grizzlies for the young shooter they have been needing to go from a good team to a contender, also the Wizards would receive a great complement to Wall's run and gun mentality with Gay's athleticism.
Nashville Predators Preview
By Jeff Carr, Sports Reporter

After long deliberations, and a lockout that threatened the cancellation of the season, the NHL is set to drop the puck on January 19th. Much has been said about the lockout, so let's leave that alone and talk some hockey, or more specifically, Nashville Predators hockey.

The Predators will start their 48-game slate this Saturday as they square off against the Columbus Blue Jackets. Nashville is coming off a season that saw a playoff series win against the vaunted Detroit Red Wings, but a second-round loss to the Phoenix Coyotes. For a team with championship aspirations in the 2011-2012 season, a second-round exit has left a bad taste in their mouths. If they are going to overcome that disappointment then they will have to do it without a key member of last year's squad.

Last season the Preds featured a defensive back line of two players that could shut any team's superstars down. Shea Weber and Ryan Suter stymied opposing teams' front lines and made things a little easier for goalie Pekka Rinne. Over the offseason, Suter bolted for Minnesota leaving Nashville to insert a new backline mate with Weber: Roman Josi.

Josi, a rookie last year, is no slouch. He scored five goals and had 11 assists throughout the regular season. He has also been keeping up the work through the lockout playing in the AHL. The Swiss defenseman was a second-round pick by Nashville in the 2008 draft.

Something the Predators did not lose is their power play potency. They led the league last year in conversion percentage at 21.6 percent and the only player who was a part of the power play that left was Suter. Josi managed to score a power play goal last season, leading to the belief that Nashville will not miss a beat in the power play area.

The most important thing for Nashville, however, is their team continuity. Despite losing Suter, they return most of their team, without adding too many new pieces. Given that there is no preseason, this favors them. Where other teams that have signed new players will take time to gel, Nashville is already a unit. Look for the Preds to do well this year.

NFL Playoffs: Divisional Round
By Christopher Howard, Sports Reporter

After week 2 of the NFL playoffs only four teams remain. The divisional round featured tight close games and a few surprise upsets.

It took two additional periods, but the Browns and the No. 4 seeded Baltimore Ravens upset the top seeded Denver Broncos in the AFC. The game was won by a score of 24-23 on a 47-yard field goal kick by rookie kicker Justin Tucker.

In the second AFC playoff game, future Hall of Fame quarterback Tom Brady threw for 344 yards and three touchdowns in the win. That win was surprising as the Patriots lost Pro Bowl Tight End Rob Gronkowski in the first quarter.

On the NFC side of the league, the No. 3 seeded Green Bay Packers took on the No. 5 seeded San Francisco 49ers. First-year starter Colin Kaepernick led the 49ers with his arm and legs by throwing for 286 yards and running for 181 more en route to a 45-31 blowout. This is the second straight year that the Packers have lost their first playoff game when ranked with the top or second seed.

The closest game of the week was played between the Atlanta Falcons and the No. 3 seeded Seattle Seahawks that ended 28-23 in the Falcons favor. The Falcons had a second round collapse after a 20-0 first half but were saved by a late field goal by kicker Matt Bryant.

The conference finals begin Sunday, Jan. 20 with the 49ers taking on the Falcons.
Go to www.Pnr.table-Puzzles.com for hints and solutions!

EVENT CALENDAR

Thursday, 1/17
- HR Speaker Night 5:30-7 p.m. @ BMS Faculty Lounge
- RUF 7-8 p.m. @ University Center Downstairs (old game room)

Friday, 1/18
- Alumni Lunch & Learn with Dr. Julian Joyce: Discussing Pompeii 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. @ Shirley Center Rom 301
- Sandella's Sounds 9-11 p.m. @ Sandella's in the UC

Saturday, 1/19
- WBB vs North Alabama 5-7 p.m. @ Spragins Hall
- WBB vs North Alabama 7-9 p.m. @ Spragins Hall

Monday, 1/21
- Housing Room Sign-Up (Step One-Registration) begins at 5 a.m. Ends Sunday, Jan. 27.
- Cru Weekly Meeting 8:45-10 p.m. @ Charger Cafe in UC

Tuesday, 1/22
- Housing Room Sign-Up (Step One-Registration) begins at 8 a.m. Ends Sunday, Jan. 27.
- 2013-14 Orientation Leader Interest Session 4-5 p.m. @ Salmon Hall EXHIBIT HALL

Wednesday, 1/23
- Housing Room Sign-Up (Step One-Registration) begins at 8 a.m. Ends Sunday, Jan. 27.
- 2013-14 Orientation Leader Interest Session 4-5 p.m. @ Salmon Library 111

Article

Horoscopes

Arctics (March 21-April 19) -- Today is a 6 -- Share your feelings over the next two days, with sensitivity for other perspectives. A fantasy may turn out to be too expensive. Make sure you know what's required. See friends later.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) -- Today is a 5 -- Let somebody else fight battles that don't concern you. Focus on making money. Get in touch with old clients and increase your market share.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) -- Today is a 4 -- Use your newly gained confidence to complete as many challenges as possible. Every little victory recharges your batteries to accomplish more. Enjoy joint success.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) -- Today is a 5 -- Emotion versus reason. Push limitations to discover what you can do, and then compromise. Don't bet the farm. Exercise prudence.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) -- Today is a 9 -- There's bound to be a disagreement about priorities. Work things out so the team functions like a well-oiled machine. Let others help you carry the load.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) -- Today is an 8 -- Invent the stories you'd love to hear about your future, and then pursue living them. Get inspiration from dreams. You're very permissive now. Write your own script.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) -- Today is a 7 -- There's a lot to learn this week, and you're like a sponge. A couch has golden words, if you listen. Messages demand your attention. Add patience.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) -- Today is an 8 -- You'll be surprised by how willing others are to compromise. Friends teach you something new, and relationships grow. You'll get more satisfaction doing what you love.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) -- Today is a 7 -- You're entering a busy phase. Don't waste your time or your money. Immerse yourself in an ocean of possibility and creativity. Offer encouragement; your suggestions are appreciated.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) -- Today is an 8 -- Another very interesting job comes your way. Bennett commitments, and erase all possible doubt. Achieve internal balance. You'll have lots of emotional support.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20) -- Today is a 9 -- Your nurturing side is flourishing, and others ask for your advice. Make your home more comfortable today and tomorrow. What you need is love.

---

Exhibit Hall
- 7-9 p.m. @ salmon hall
- 8:45-10 p.m. @ charger cafe in UC
- 4:30 p.m. @ uc exhibit hall