YES, IT’S BULLETIN BOARD ONCE AGAIN . . . After a rather on-again, off-again existence, BULLETIN BOARD will be coming out on a regular basis. Look for it the 15th of each month, and be sure to send the information you want to see in it by the 5th of the month to BULLETIN BOARD, News & Publications, 234 Madison Hall. While we'll be monthly for the time being, the goal is to begin biweekly publication as soon as possible.

SPEAKING OF INFORMATION . . . There are two more persons on campus who would very much like to know what you’re doing. Katherine Orr runs the General Information Office just inside the main entrance to Morton Hall. She says she welcomes all notices of activities on and off campus that she can pass along to the UAH community and the general public. You can reach her at 5-6295. Mike Hinds is the faculty-staff editor for the non-weekly EXPONENT and wants to hear about events on a regular basis. He can be reached on campus at 5-6090.

NEW SCHOOL OF MANAGEMENT . . . President John C. Wright announced plans Dec. 5 for a new School of Management. He said he anticipated that an external steering committee would be chosen soon, and one of its first tasks will be assessing the opportunities for research contracts in the community. An internal steering committee of UAH representatives will be named by the end of January and will be composed of faculty and administrative persons most closely associated with, or affected by, the new school. The planning stages, approvals and full implementation are expected to take two or three years. The school is being formed to meet a demonstrated need in North Alabama for business and administration education opportunities. Area businesses, industries and professional groups have already expressed their willingness to help develop the school.
WHERE THERE’S SMOKE . . . Each term the University restates its smoking policy, and for those of you not yet in the know, here it is. No smoking is allowed in classrooms, large public meeting rooms, elevators, or undesignated areas of the library. An announcement of this policy should be made at the start of any event in a large public room, such as meeting rooms in the University Union. The policy has been around since 1966 and was made to prevent damage to floors, carpets and other property, not to mention the now widely recognized health hazards. Smoking is allowed in private offices, small conference rooms, the cafeteria, hallways, and in lobby areas where there are proper ashtrays.

WE'RE GROWING! . . . The winter figures are in and Nan Hall, registrar, reports that 3,977 students are now part of the UAH family, an increase of 7.1% over the last winter term. The figures break down as follows:

- Full-time students: 2148
- Part-time students: 1240
- Graduate students: 525 (full & part-time)
- Medical students: 64

HAVE AN IDEA FOR A RESEARCH PROJECT? . . . Feb. 9 is the deadline for turning in research project proposals to the Research Grants Committee for the spring and summer terms. All interested faculty, staff and students are encouraged to apply for the grants, says Dr. N. F. Audeh, committee chairman. New application forms and more information are available at 5-6002, or drop by room 203 in Madison Hall.

LIBRARY NEWS . . . The new addition to the UAH library opened with the beginning of the winter term and tours are being offered. Library workers say they would be pleased to show you around the new facility, just give them a call at 5-6530.

The first floor above the entrance foyer contains general references, circulation and administrative offices. The second floor holds the Life Science collections, including botany, biology, nursing, chemistry, health sciences and agriculture. On the third floor are the Environmental Science collections, including astronomy, geography, oceanography, physics, geology and technology-engineering. The new addition also has faculty and student carrels, group study rooms, a reserve room, and new facilities for microprint and audio-visual materials.
JEEC NEWS . . . Dr. Gerald R. Guinn has been appointed director of the Alabama Solar Energy Center operated by the Johnson Environmental and Energy Center on campus. He comes to UAH after 15 years at Teledyne-Brown Engineering, most recently as director of energy programs.

A pilot model electric delivery van is being studied under a 12-month, $72,000 contract given to UAH by the United Parcel Service. For the next eight months, a UPS delivery van will be driven locally and the data studied to determine the feasibility of using electric vehicles to save gas.

NEW EXHIBIT OPENS . . . The UAH Art Gallery has a new show. The works of photographer Winfried Kralisch will be up through Jan. 24. These rare shots show the intricate architecture and stone work of the Cologne Cathedral in West Germany. Gallery hours are 12:30-4 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 7-9 p.m. Tuesday, and 1-5 p.m. Sunday.
