Six-guest limitation for spring commencement

by Nancy A. Parker

Why is UAH issuing tickets to spring commencement? Why are tickets limited to only six per graduating student?

According to Dr. Jean Fisher, Vice President of Student Affairs, the commencement committee had to come up with some method to assure the immediate families of graduating students attendance at commencement.

"Two years ago, we had only one commencement a year," Fisher stated. "We needed to go to a larger immediate families of graduating students.

"We have considered that possibility," answered Dr. Fisher, "but the drawbacks outweigh the benefits. There is always a risk of rain. Besides, there are concerns about overcrowding."

Will UAH continue to issue tickets for future commencements?

"We are going to revisit the question of going to the VBCC. It is not in the budget," said Fisher. "We will need to see what happens to VBCC and then discuss it with the students.

Hart analysis of LBJ ad selected for presentation at national conference

by Cindy Rodriguez and Kelly Baldwin

Recently, waves of discontent have swept across some Charger sports. The golf team's dilemma is based purely on rumors, according to Brand.

"As much time as the guys have put into it," Harvilla said, "I am upset that they wanted to go to the VBCC and theItemListed as only six for the spring commencement.

"I figured in an election this might be the only way the SGA can be elected," said Fisher. "It makes sense to keep it in the best interest of UAH.

"I am pleased with the decision of the Board and I look forward to a clean campaign."
Sexuality conference concludes tomorrow
by Judith Baer
features reporter
The second session of the two day program, Human Sexuality Today: Caring and Sharing, will be held tomorrow in the University Center Exhibit Hall. The session will begin at 9 a.m. and conclude at 3:30 p.m. with numerous breaks in between.

Brought to you by UCAN (University Counseling and Advocacy Network), this session will deal with the question of intimacy involved in human sexuality. The titles of some of the talks held throughout the two day program: Human Sexuality Beyond Curse to Gift, "Sexuality and Spirituality: The Richness of the Body: The Female Body," and "The Couple's Journey: The Struggle for Caring Relationship, Marriage Today: Issues and Concerns," and "Women Who Love Too Much.

Highlights of the session include: (1) A panel luncheon made up of a psychologist, a minister, and a nurse, which will address the issues of human sexuality—medical, therapeutic, and pastoral perspectives, in a question and answer format; (2) A look at the movie "Gone With The Wind" as a metaphor for male/female relationships; and (3) A detailed program held that night entitled "Whatever Happened to the Sexual Revolution," which will discuss changes in society's view of sexuality.

Frank Broyles, Chairman of UCAN and Director of Campus Ministry, had this to say about the program: "I think these discussions are vital for the UAH community—students, faculty, and staff, with an emphasis, of course, on the students. The talks that I shall be moderating on Thursday deal with the opportunity for growth in intimacy—emotional, spiritual, and social. They will discuss how to be healthy in a relationship with the opposite sex, the myths and realities of marriage, and also interdependency and dependency between men and women.

UAH students will be given a chance to interact with successful personalities from various walks of life when College Satellite Network (CSN) presents "Success: Idol of the Eighties." This two-hour, live interactive dialogue will be followed by, "LIVE FROM NEW YORK," a two-hour concert program broadcast live from The Palladium—New York's hottest nightclub! LIVE FROM NEW YORK will be sponsored by Pepsi and feature two pop dance bands and three truck artists from the top of Billboard's dance charts! The event is being billed as the world's largest dance party with over 500 locations participating.

"Success: Idol of the Eighties" will offer students a look at success through the eyes of the successful, with special guests such as Geraldine Ferraro, the first woman vice presidential candidate. In addition to phoning in questions, students will be given an opportunity to voice their opinions on the subject via a special poll developed for the broadcast.

This special free event will be held April 29 at 7 p.m. in UC 128.

Students encouraged to voice opinions on College Satellite Network tonight

The Exponent Government elections will be held May 6 and 7. I believe every student should get out and vote.

In the past few years, there has been low voter turnout at the polls. Not only is the interest of those involved, but also for that the Legislature acted in the best interests of those involved, but also for the Student Body as a whole. We were accused of trying to change Elections Board policies, but we stood by such action. Instead, the Legislature requested that a quick solution to a problem that concerned several students whose rights were possibly being violated by another candidate, be submitted to the Legislature. According to the anti-smoking legislation, the SGA cannot make any policy changes in policy. At any other time, the legislature may encourage policy changes in policy. At any other time, the legislature may encourage policy changes in policy. At any other time, the legislature may encourage policy changes in policy. At any other time, the legislature may encourage policy changes in policy. At any other time, the legislature may encourage policy changes in policy.

By Kelly A. Caldwell

Do smokers have the right to impose their smoke on others? Do non-smokers have the right to tell them they can’t? The question of the rights of smokers and non-smokers—and whether or not the rights of one can exist alongside the rights of the other—has been a major issue in the U.S. for the past few years. Recently, the issue hit a little closer to home. UAH students have lined up and taken sides using the campus as their battleground. The Student Government has decided that the meager tables and chairs at the cafeteria are no longer enough. But while some will be satisfied with a larger, more "official" non-smoking section in the cafeteria, there are others who want to go greater lengths in order to end their meals in a completely smoke-free environment. This wish prompted the SGA to place the issue of altogether banning smoking in the cafeteria on a May 6 and 7 referendum. There should be plenty of people out to vote on this one.

The Surgeon General's confirmation that inhaling smoke can be harmful to your health, or even more so, as if you yourself were a smoker has been backed up by no gene-smokers and rekindled the battle have. It has been said that one person's rights end where another's begin. Here lies the difficulty in deciding on the smoking issue. Can anyone really kick the smoke stops and starts? Or when exactly it is harmful and when it is not? I think not.

I realize that being smoking from the campus altogether would be "banned for UAH because it is a state-funded university and has to allow for smokers' "rights." Until it can be decided, if ever, who really has the rights in this issue—for it is my opinion that the rights of the two cannot co-exist—then the university will most likely only be able to allow small, tucked-away sections for those who don’t smoke.

As Steven Bruce, Director of the University Center, puts it, the university must "appeal to all constituencies." His point is understandable. But in the case of the cafeteria, does simply creating a non-smoking section solve anything? The smoke will still be in the cafeteria, still in the air, and, therefore, still around the food. Now don’t smoke, but I do know that it would be rather difficult to smoke and eat simultaneously. This being the case, couldn’t smokers take their after-dinner smoke in the lobby or outside the building? It’s such a small concession to make.

Everyone is so worried about taking away smokers' rights, yet they are allowed to smoke almost any place and anytime they choose. Smoking is now on its way out and is no longer in vogue. This should be taken into consideration when creating new sections. Since non-smokers appear to be the majority now, shouldn’t they be allowed to avoid smoke when and where they choose? Most restaurants have one small room or section for non-smokers which seems a little backwards to me.

Of course, I realize that there are many people who would like to stop smoking but are unable to, but it is my belief that everyone can learn to be considerate of others. The goal in this issue should not be to decide who is right and who is wrong, but to be as fair as possible to those involved.

Students vying for SGA positions

Candidates for SGA President

Mike Fairbanks
Communication Arts
1987-1988
SGA President

Many people on campus believe that the S.G.A. is ineffective as a body. I can't blame these people because the S.G.A. is only as strong as the students allow it to be. If I am elected, I plan to increase the power of the S.G.A., by addressing important issues, such as parking lot security, lighting, and streamlining the budget to allow easier funding for clubs. I honestly have the hands-on experience gained through involvement with the S.G.A., and numerous other organizations. If the students will go to the polls for me, I will go to bat for the students' rights.

Vice President

My goal as Vice President include creating more student involvement by making the SGA more viable on campus, streamlining the process by which UAH clubs are chartered and funded, and making registration easier for all students. The SGA can be successful with strong leadership that I am willing to provide. I would appreciate the opportunity to serve the students of UAH as Vice President.

Sonia Wiszynski
Math Major-CS Minor
Senior
SGA Vice President

My biggest concern today is making this University a better university for the Student Body. Issues such as campus safety, child care for students' dependents, a campus radio station, and the manner in which Student Activity Fees are spent are all issues which deserve much more serious consideration. I have the experience and motivation to lead the SGA in representing the Student Body. Cooperation is my key word and I hope to strengthen the ties between the Administration, Faculty, and Student Body by creating a more viable working atmosphere. I can make a difference in the SGA.

Dear Fellow UAH Student,
I ask you to support an important cause: I want to represent each of you as your SGA president.
If I earn your support I will devote myself to:
Making the Exponent credible
Promoting free trade on our-campus (Coke and Pepsi)
Establishing "Greek Row"
Improved security lighting
Student body meetings to discuss tuition increases and other important topics (WE HAVE A VOICE)
What does "Space Grant University" mean to us
Improving campus housing

My opponent says there are no student issues; I know the issues, and I need your ideas, your energy, and your commitment.

I think that a part of making this university a better one is the idea of getting involved. The Publications Board is not just for English majors, it's for the Student Body. As a Math major, I think that I can give the editors of campus publications a slightly different point of view and help them generate more ideas which concern both the literate and technical sides of this university. Although I have limited experience in this kind of position, I'm sure that I would be an asset to the editors and the Board.

Hello!!! My glamorous and expensive campaign has only two purposes: The main one is to get people involved in campus activities, organizations, and elections. If you are paying for these services, you might as well use them. Go out and meet some people, play some intramural sports, see a movie or two. It's free!! I think you'll have a good time and make a few new friends at the same time. The second purpose is that I have always wanted my picture in The Exponent and here's my chance. Thank you for your time.

Candidates for SGA Finance Officer

Shiela K. Pacemire

EH-HY Double Major

Financial Officer

This position will give me the opportunity to help other people as well as myself. I believe in helping people reach their goals so that I will in turn reach mine. The Finance Officer position holds a great deal of responsibility for anyone willing to challenge its experience. I feel I can give this position the extra time and hard work it deserves. U.A.H is a fast growing college in technology and I feel happy to be a part of this environment. My goal is to contribute and be as much a part of this university as I can.

Deana Preston

Elementary Education

SGA Legislator

Hi, I'm Deana Preston. I want to represent you, the student body in the SGA. I am very active at UAH being involved with Delta Zeta Sorority, an Athletic Hostess and having been in the UAH Choir for two quarters. I have experience: having served on high school student council as representative and secretary, junior class treasurer, and chorus secretary-treasurer. I want to help develop UAH into a more student-oriented university. The success of UAH depends on us, the student body and what we do now.

Beth Gonzowski

Communications Sophomore
Publications Board

I believe that UAH students should be able to be involved in publications which represent them. I am the editor of Huntsville High's newspaper for two years, and am now the assistant editor of our literary magazine, oasis. As a member of the Publications Board, I could use my experiences to serve you, the UAH student. But, I can't do this if everyone is not involved with publications. It's time to get more people involved with the SGA. Give experience a chance - vote for Beth Gonzowski, Publications Board.

Paul W. Blum

Management Marketing Double Major
Senior
SGA Legislator

I would like to become an SGA Legislator in order to be more involved on campus and to have an impact on decisions affecting the students at UAH. Serving as a member and as an officer in other campus organizations has provided me with experience working with others and making decisions, both of which would help me to serve effectively as an SGA Legislator. I would enjoy working with other members of the student body and, if elected, would work to make next year's SGA an active one. I would appreciate your support on May 6 and 7.

Lance Kayendall

SGA Legislator

To answer this question accurately, I must describe the essential qualities of an SGA Legislator. Effective communication skills are of prime importance. Also necessary is practicality which will lend itself to successful problem solving. Lastly, the position demands someone who can take an idealistic approach to establish visionary nature and previous experience in leadership positions enable me to fulfill this obligation. Thus, I wish to be elected SGA Legislator because I feel that I possess the qualities deemed necessary to effect improvement at UAH.

Publications Board

Our university needs a Publications board that is willing to work for the good of the EXONENT and the AXIS, not for the benefit of an exclusive group of people. Presently, I am enrolled in a third quarter journalism class and have a knowledge of how to run a page. Because I have some experience in the publishing of a newspaper, I won't be swayed by the opinions and influence of others. I know that I can be beneficial to the publications on campus.

I want to be reelected to this position because I enjoy serving U.A.H., particularly the School of Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences. As the current AHSS Representative, I fully understand the duties of this position. Again, I am prepared to work for my fellow students as well as faculty members. Support our S.G.A. and vote May 6 and 7.

In the past two quarters, I feel that I have become well acquainted with the problems of the students at U.A.H. I believe that if these problems are to be resolved, the students must select someone who will play an active role in the student government. I want to take the responsibility of upholding the rules and standards of UAH, while at the same time, giving students an active voice in their government. Your vote will be greatly appreciated. Thank you.

Patrick Rasco
Electrical Engineering

Student Affairs Advisory Board

I would like to become more involved and have more input in the decisions that affect me as a student here at UAH. I believe being chosen as the Student Affairs Advisory Board Representative from the School of Engineering will enable me to accomplish this.

Chris Jordan
Management
Junior
SGA Legislator

Hi! During the three years I have attended UAH, I have worked part-time and maintained an overall GPA of 3.4, majoring in Management. While a student on campus, I have seen a wide range of clubs and organizations which do not seem to reach their full potential. As a legislator I would work hard to help the clubs and organizations attract a greater membership and also to see that they provide more opportunities for the campus community. I am a hard worker and will do the best possible job I can. So... don't forget—cast your vote for Chris Jordan.

Ehsan Chitsazan

The campus life of UAH, in my opinion, needs to have more programs dealing with the students' interactions with one another. Specifically, there's a lack of programs which could promote special occasions where students can meet at a larger scale than current campus parties and gatherings.

Furthermore, I will support proposals that give all the students the opportunity to learn more about other nation's traditions, histories, and beliefs so that we all can have a more understanding, exciting, and progressive campus environment for everybody.

Falvey writes regularly for The Wall Street Journal and National Business Employment Weekly. He has appeared on the NBC "Today" show.

"Many college seniors," writes Falvey, "from this year's graduating class will have five or six different career tours their lifetimes. Learning to make career transitions beginning with the first one must be a professional skill developed by each graduate.

"Commencement is the beginning of self-determination and self-management," Falvey maintains. "Those skills cannot be taught. Fortunately they can be learned."

The Ten Commandments of the Job Search for Graduating Seniors

1. Life is a full contact sport. It has always been a game of who you know. Begin with a list of friends, relatives and acquaintances and ask each whom they think you should talk with.

2. Don't look for a job. Look for information first. Getting these steps backwards is the biggest mistake you can make. Face to face research is the best kind.

3. Do not lead with a resume. Resumes cause screen out. They should only be used after face to face meetings that develop opportunities. Do them one at a time. Say as little as possible.

4. Operate from a written list of questions. How did you find your way here? What is this industry really like? If you were me who else would you talk with? Can I use your name as a referral?

5. Real practice makes perfect. The more people you contact and talk with the better at it you will get. Start with alumni, your roommate's father, a professor's brother, anyone. Discipline yourself to make phone calls and set up meetings. Every one of them will have a skill building benefit and an often unexpected piece of information.

6. Stay away from interviews. You don't want to be an applicant. You don't want to get in the pile to be evaluated and screened out. You want to meet key people, listen to them, let them like you and eventually give them a chance to fit you into their organization.

7. The most powerful words in the language are "Thank you." Spend your money on high quality personal stationery. You must become a master at the three-sentence one-paragraph thank you note. Thank everyone for everything, in writing and within one business day. Each time you thank a referral copy the person who gave you the name (with a marginal additional thank you).

8. Life is a treasure hunt. You can't expect to find out what you want to do or be unless you go out and see what is out there. If you want to be a fireman, go visit the firehouse. There is no other way. If you don't like the firemen you meet, that is a clue that firefighting might not be for you. Walk the ground. It's the only way to know what you might want.

9. Begin building a career network. The people that you meet and contact are not one shot experiences. Your objective is not to get a job but to build up a group of potential career advisors. You can pick the best ones and stay in touch for years. Your initial substantial work investment can have long term paybacks.

10. Careers are mosaics, not blueprints. Structured linear career progressions are a myth. Your first job is not the first step, it is the first piece of the picture. Beware of the extended training program. Go for something that gets you involved with real work as soon as possible. (This may be substituted for any of the first ten or can be kept as a bonus #11).

11. Look for your first boss, not your first job. Who you work for and with personally is the single most important factor in a first job. Don't accept a position for assignment to someone at a later date. Personal chemistry will always be critical.

Tour for Cure supports Multiple Sclerosis Society

Bikers across Alabama are getting in shape for the second annual Tour for Cure for Multiple Sclerosis set for Saturday and Sunday, May 30-31. This year there will be four teams of riders on a two-day, 150-mile route through historic areas of Autauga, Montgomery, Lowndes and Dallas counties and then return on Sunday to Montgomery.

The tour is sponsored statewide by the Montgomery Chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society and Coca-Cola USA and WRJM radio. The annual Tour for Cure is designed to raise money in support of research for Multiple Sclerosis and to offer an opportunity to promote awareness of this disease to the public.

Multiple Sclerosis is a chronic, progressive disease of the central nervous system in which the simplest everyday tasks can no longer be taken for granted. Its symptoms can vary from blurred vision to complete paralysis. It effects about a quarter of a million people and nearly 200 new cases are diagnosed each week. Multiple Sclerosis most often strikes people in their twenties or thirties, and is not easily detected. No cure for this crippling disease has yet been developed.

For more information about this year's Tour for Cure or about Multiple Sclerosis, call the Montgomery Chapter at 282-0546.

Interview with the Vampire 'intriguing'

by Jim Reynolds
features writer

There is a very good reason why Interview With the Vampire got such praise from critics when it first came out. It is a very refreshing, original viewpoint on a mythos that many thought had been bloddy. (Excuse the pun.) Using the same basic properties of vampirism according to the old tales, Rice twists them to suit her own needs. She explains why vampires live in gravestones and illustrates what she called the Theatre of Vampires where real vampires pretend to be actors who pretend to be vampires. What better place to hide than in the public eye? The vampire Louis is the subject of the book Interview With the Vampire.

He is interviewed by a young man who has met him in a bar. The story is inevitably interrupted when the boy must change the cassette tape he is recording on. This makes for a useful storytelling device as it allows the reader to pause and reflect on what has transpired without diminishing the narrative flow. There are few writers who can pull this off successfully. Rice is one who can.

Louis is changed into a vampire by Lestat, a temperamental young blond who isLestat convinces him that he is more informed about vampires and that he could not possibly exist without his help. Louis is practically made into a slave by Lestat. Louis feeds on small animals at first, until he walks down a New Orleans street one night, thirsting for blood, and hears the crying of a young girl. The girl's name is Claudia and Louis starts to drain her. Guilt and the strong 5-year-old heart stop him. However, Lestat finishes killing her and turns Claudia into the first child vampire. Interview With the Vampire Lestat is a work that Rice has researched thoroughly in order to give the reader an atmosphere and cultures that are believable and probably historically accurate. Vampires give an account of Lestat's mortal life and how he became one of the undead. A fascinating aspect of Rice's characters is that no matter how low they sink, how evil they become, the reader never really cares about what happens to them.

Perhaps the most intriguing feature of Vampire is Lestat's decision to come into the modern world because of popular music, and his becoming a big name rock star. Lestat is a fascinating character study. Here is a vampire who enjoys walking among mortals, enjoys laughing with them, and yet still kills them without remorse. Rice has taken an element of the unnatural and placed it into our world with frightening clarity.

Boy Scouts of America begin anti-drug campaign

The Boy Scouts of America (BSA) has launched a major effort aimed at educating people about the dangers of drug abuse. The name of this campaign is "Drugs, A Deadly Game." It is directed toward all segments of the community and is directed toward all youth, whether or not they are involved in scouting.

Drug abuse is a serious problem affecting the well-being of our society and its future. It is a national scourge in every respect. American teenagers use more drugs than those of any other developed nation. Statistics indicate that some 61 percent of high-school seniors have tried drugs, 20 percent smoke marijuana; and 6 percent use cocaine at least once a month. Today one in six 13-year-olds has tried marijuana.

The BSA has long been concerned about drug abuse, especially as it affects our nation's youth. The BSA, along with other major youth-serving agencies, was invited to the White House and challenged to address the drug problem head-on. President and Mrs. Reagan have spoken out passionately on the horrors of drugs and have pledged the resources of the federal government to fight this menace. "Drugs, A Deadly Game" will be implemented nationwide by BSA's 42,000 local scout councils. Educational materials are being sent to councils for their use in local educational and outreach efforts. These efforts are directed toward schools, religious institutions, and various community and youth groups.

Coors employees given credit at Regis College

In what may be the first agreement of its kind in the country, Adolph Coors Company recently announced a partnership with Regis College in which Coors employees may receive college credit for many of the company's in-house management development courses.

While other agreements between businesses and academic institutions exist, this partnership is unique in that Regis will be granting college credit for successful completion of many of Coors management training courses.

"Our partnership with Regis is a first," said Gerry Kaveny, vice president human resources. "It represents the 'winning edge' in adult education and it will serve as a model program for other schools and companies."

"The programs we have developed with Regis have been popular with employees on many levels at Coors. We see this latest development as a logical extension of the positive relationship we have established with Regis," Kaveny said.

"We are very pleased with this agreement. We hope that by providing accreditation and guidance in the curriculum that Regis College can enhance the educational experience for Coors' management and thereby contribute to richer lives for all Coors employees," said Father Mike Shearer, S.J., acting president of Regis College.

Coors' Management Development program started in 1985. Courses are tailored to meet the needs of managers as they progress within the company. The program helps build a network of managers who can communicate effectively, solve problems and accomplish goals, according to Kaveny.

CIEE begins projects for international work camp

More than 200 young Americans are expected to volunteer for international work camps in Eastern and Western Europe this summer. Though little known in the U.S., international work camps have been operating for more than 30 years and bring together thousands of young people from across the world each year to work on projects that benefit the local community.

The Council on International Educational Exchange (CIEE), the largest student travel organization in the U.S., has been a sponsor of these projects since 1982. Usually 2-4 weeks in duration, the camps provide free room and board to volunteers.

Projects for this summer include: restoring castles and forts and excavating ancient sites in Portugal, Czechoslovakia, France and Spain; community work in Denmark, Turkey, Wales, Germany and Holland; and agricultural and ecological programs in Poland, Hungary and Ireland.

There are no special skills required of volunteers, simply a willingness to get involved and an open-minded approach. English is spoken at most camps except in Belgium and Spain where the native language is used.

Many participants use this opportunity to improve their language skills.

Volunteers must be at least 18 years old, except in Germany where 16-year-olds are accepted. Beyond a modest program fee of $100, there is no cost other than the airline.

For more information and an application, contact CIEE, International Work Camps, 205 East 42nd St., New York, NY 10017; Telephone: (212) 690-0260.

Exponent hosts third successful fishing rodeo

by Spencer Glasgow
sports reporter

The Exponent sponsored its third successful Fishing Rodeo at the UAH duckpond. Held on Saturday, April 25, from 5 a.m.-6:30 p.m., over 130 people registered to fish for first, second, and third place prizes.

Gift certificates from The Fisherman's Choice for $25, $15, and $10, respectively, were awarded. Charles R. Gaskins took first place with a 1 3/4 lb. bass, Jeff Bates' 1 1/4 lb. bass won second place, and Mickey L. Brandley claimed third place with a 1 lb. bass.

The small size of the fish caught this spring was indicative of the blustery day. Though the sun was shining throughout the day, the winds made it seem much cooler than it really was. A constant northerly wind cooled the pond from 72 degrees down to 60 degrees in a two-day span before the rodeo. Thus, the fish moved from calm, shallow waters, where they were seen earlier in the week, to the deeper waters to seek shelter from the cooler wind.

Between 250 and 300 fishermen made the rodeo successful despite the fish not cooperating. Fish that were caught were little, few, and far between.

For example, one fisherman had little luck all day until he caught a potential winning 4 1/2 lb. bass twice. Yeah, that's right—he caught it twice. He hooked it the first time on a live crawfish and got it within inches of land before it broke his brand new 12-lb. test fishing line. The fisherman quickly re-rigged his rod, cast it out, and within minutes had hooked another similar sized fish.

Upon landing the fish, both the fisherman's first and second hooks were firmly planted in the bass' mouth. Nevertheless, the fisherman was not eligible because he works for The Exponent. Maybe the fish will cooperate more in the next fishing rodeo.

The fish refused to cooperate with the participants of the fishing rodeo April 25. Nevertheless, two men did have some luck with the fish. In the top right photo, this fisherman is all smiles with the small stringer. The bottom right photo shows the largest weigh-in of the day, a 4 1/2 lb. largemouth bass.

The "No Fishing" sign did not deter the two young men in the photo at right from having a good time at the rodeo.

This week's winner of three reserve seat tickets is Gaill Frasher. She correctly answered that Vida Blue was the last Oakland A's player to be named American League Most Valuable Player.
Golf team shines at tournament

by Kelly Baldwin

The UAH golf team ended its season last weekend by placing fifth out of twenty golf teams at the Lagoon Park tournament. The team did very well against the stiff competition at Lagoon Park, which was sponsored by NAIA national champions Huntingdon College.

Senior John Harvilla mentioned that "we've done better this season," Harvilla is hoping to play professional golf by next year. Among his awards is the championship of the Spirit of America Golf Tournament.

Other UAH golfers, including juniors Billy Cleveland and Flint Vines, fared well also. "The guys have put a lot of time into it (golfing)," said Harvilla. He also added that Cleveland's star shone at the tournament.

Tennis team concludes season, making plans for womens team

by Damon Jones
sports reporter

The UAH men's tennis team concluded their Spring season last Friday with a 2-0 loss to Oglethorpe from Atlanta. The overall record for this season was 3-11 with victories against Alabama A&M University and Marion Military Institute.

"We're still in our development stages and have a long road ahead of us," said senior Steve Williams. "Also, if the Athletic Department wants a winning team, then they are gonna have to give more scholarships so that players from high school will be attracted to us," Williams added.

Against Oglethorpe, freshman Kelly Harrell, the only girl on the team, and sophomore Chuck Higgins were the only wins. They won both matches in singles competition.

"Against Oglethorpe, I played the most intense game I've ever played during my two years on the college team," stated Williams.

Expectations for next year are high with a girls' team in the organization stage as well as a more talented men's team.

Alpha Delta Phi announces volleyball charity event

by Cindy Rodriguez
associate editor

The Alpha Delta Phi Sorority/Alumnae announced their yearly volleyball charity event. According to Alpha Delta Phi spokeswoman Julie Ashcroft, the event will be held May 2, starting at 8 p.m. and continuing to approximately 5 a.m. in Spragins Hall.

ADP Huntsville Chapter, with its 60 active members, has been donating the money they raise to the Huntsville Hospitality House for the past three years.

Ashcroft, an active ADP alumna member said, "We want to be good citizens even after college, and you have to admit it's a worthwhile cause."

According to Ashcroft, they will be offering two categories of volleyball:

(1) power ball - for people who have played on a team before; (2) recreational - for amateurs. First and second trophies will be awarded in both categories.

Helped by the UAH girls’ volleyball team, ADP plans to raise money through the $30 team entry fee, program advertising, and donations.

"We appreciate UAH for letting us use Spragins Hall. Before, we would have to depend on the weather," Ashcroft said.

For those interested in joining the charity event, there is still plenty of time. Please contact Julie Ashcroft at 236-5053 if you are interested in participating in or donating to this charity event to benefit the Huntsville Hospitality House.
