

The Charger Times

Thursday, January 24, 2013

Putting a Hoofprint on the Right Story

Volume 1, Issue 13

Charger Times

Simple Life

UAHuntsville student starts his own brand of clothing, Simple Life. The story of the Simple Life clothing brand and its founders is worth hearing about.

PAGE 3

Men's Basketball

Men's Basketball team dropped their second straight home game on Saturday, losing to rival North Alabama by a final score of 81-71.

PAGE 4

Inauguration

President Obama took the public oath of office in Washington D.C. for the second time to begin another four-year term in office amid a time of deep ideological and political division.

PAGE 2

Supper Heroes

ACE brought the comedian Mal Hall's humorous storytelling to UAH last Wednesday for a two hour show

PAGE 3

Zero Dark Thirty

Hunger is vanquished, dinner is saved! The mark of a good restaurant is not the size but the creativity of its people. At Supper Heroes, creativity abounds from the decor to the menu.

PAGE 3

UAH Hockey Gains New Life

By Taylor Reed, Sports Reporter

Photo: Holly Shelton

The Western Collegiate Hockey Association has unanimously accepted UAHuntsville and granted the Chargers full-time membership in the conference beginning next season.

Charger Hockey has been on life support for the past three years. UAH is the only Division 1 hockey program below the Mason-Dixon Line and they were operating independently, with no conference to call home.

Hockey supporters were fighting for the Chargers, but time was almost up and the team was going to die if help did not come.

That help came Jan. 17 when the Chargers received the news that they had been accepted into the WCHA. You can bet that hockey fans around the South were celebrating that night. "All athletic programs experience special defining moments, and our hockey program's acceptance today into the Western Collegiate Hockey Association is certainly one of those moments," Dr. Brophy, UAH's Athletic Director, said.

The Chargers will be added as the 10th team in the conference alongside Bowling Green, Lake Superior State, Minnesota State and Northern Michigan among others. For the team in Blue, what this means is a second chance. The Chargers will immediately be eligible for the conference tournament and will look toward competing in the NCAA tournament.

This season the Chargers only played two Division 1 teams at home. Being a part of WCHA will bring more games to Huntsville and will allow for new rivalries. The fan base will grow, the competition will grow and the recruits will come as players will have a chance to compete for a title. It will not happen overnight, but with dedication from university officials, students and the community, Charger hockey will become a competitive program once again in Division 1 hockey. UAH, welcome to the WCHA!

NASA gets funding

By Anneliese DeVyldere, Staff Writer

On their way out the door for the last time in 2012, the 112th United States Congress tossed a resolution at the White House telling President Obama—and America—that they still wanted NASA to build the Space Launch System, despite their inability to decide any useful economic policies.

That's right—Congress wants Huntsville to keep building that heavy lift rocket many of our jobs and internships are wrapped up in. As one of their last, and only, achievements before adjourning for the year, both houses of Congress signed off on the "Space Exploration Sustainability Act." What this might mean is continued internship support for UAHuntsville students and jobs available after graduation. Because of the finicky nature of government contracting and our government's tendency to change its minds about where money should go, we have no confirmation of whether that will actually come to pass.

The heavy lift rocket being designed in Huntsville is for a two-stage launch vehicle to replace the retired space shuttles. Its job description includes such things as backup crew deliveries to the International Space Station, uncrewed lunar flyovers, lunar surface missions and other such cool NASA space quests like they used to do a few decades ago.

We reached out to Career Development Services at UAH and they put us in touch with their contact for NASA and Boeing internships. Unfortunately they did not reach back to us so the next paragraph will not contain a glowing promise of increased opportunities for majors of all colleges—except Nursing of course.

Photo Courtesy of NASA

Snow day in January

By Claudia Mesnil-Baez, Staff Writer

On Jan. 17, classes at UAHuntsville were canceled around 1:30 p.m. due to snow. The timing of the decision, and the delay of Friday morning classes, have affected class schedules among other things, and have been criticized by some but complimented by others.

On Thursday morning, many schools and universities had already cancelled class. The weather forecast for the day included snow, but since it did not snow in the morning, the day went on. When many students were already in class, or on their way to class, a decision to cancel was finally made. Most students and people were leaving from worksites at the same time, creating extremely slow and congested traffic.

Commuter students were affected the most. Many had to email their professors to ask if class was cancelled.

"It took me two hours to get home, when it usually takes me 15 minutes! Not to mention that the roads were very dangerous; an earlier decision would have made it easier on us," Ayah Abu-Spetani and Julia Schnider, two commuter students from Madison, said.

UAH might have had their students' safety in mind, but the administration could not cancel class "just because." Missing class and altering the schedule also affects students. Several members of the faculty and professors said that it is a complicated decision. "UAH handled the situation very well, keeping in mind the fact that this state does not usually have to face such climatic conditions," Professor Wilkerson from the Philosophy Department said.

Some were not affected because they did not have class that day, but their Friday morning classes were delayed. "I was satisfied with the decision made to delay classes on Friday because there was considerable ice in the area I live in, and I would not have felt comfortable to drive," Brittany Vaughn, a UAH student, said.

Apparently, the situation was handled well, and it was not easy. If you did not receive email notifications of the cancellations, register for UAlert today to be aware of emergency situations. Just follow the instructions on the website: <http://www.uah.edu/ualert/registration>.

thechargertimes

Follow us for instant news!

thechargertimes

@thechargertimes

Breaking News
News
Arts & Leisure

pg 1
pg 2
pg 3

Event Calendar
Sports
Movie Reviews

pg 6
pg 4
pg 3

Word Search
Sudoku
Crossword Puzzle

pg 6
pg 6
pg 6

Charger Times

Editor in Chief
Anusha Alapati
cteditor@uah.edu

Business Manager
James Lomax
ctadvertising@uah.edu

Managing Editor
Gage Smythe
ctcopyed@uah.edu

Layout Editor
Kelsey Craffon
ctweb@uah.edu

Web Editor
Kelsey Craffon
ctweb@uah.edu

News Editor
Lucas Stewart
las0011@uah.edu

Arts & Leisure Editor
Rachel Palazzo
ctal@uah.edu

Sports Editor
Kim Dyer
ctsports@uah.edu

Photography Editor
Leon Kennedy
ctphoto@uah.edu

Advisor
Dr. Clarke Rountree
routrj@uah.edu

Staff Writers
Adam Henry
Nicolas Neely
Annaliese DeVydere
Dawn Carey
Leon Kennedy
Garrett Holmes
Charlotte Ellett
Nhu-An Nguyen
Reggie Allen
David Vail
Michael House
Charles Taylor
Sara McMahan
Christopher Howard
Andy Donovan
Jeff Carr
Taylor Reed
Chad Chavez
Edgar Lopez-Vega
Antonia Pitts
Kelsey Harris
Jessica Louallen

Advertising Sales
Cora Cloud
cwc0005@uah.edu
Keith Cebolla
kcc0007@uah.edu

NEWS

Photo Credit: MCT Campus

Obama sworn in for a second term

By Nicolas Neely
Staff Writer

On Monday, President Obama took the public oath of office in Washington D.C. for the second time to begin another four-year term in office amid a time of deep ideological and political division.

Obama was officially sworn in Sunday as required by the Constitution. Obama's second public inauguration was a star-studded event taking place in front of the Capitol amid a sea of onlookers. Pop star Beyonce sang the event's rendition of the "Star Spangled Banner" and James Taylor performed "America the Beautiful." Inauguration Day fell on Martin Luther King Jr. Day and the President marked the occasion by choosing to be sworn in by Supreme Court Chief Justice John Roberts with a pair of Bibles owned by Abraham Lincoln and Martin Luther King Jr. respectively.

Obama declared during his speech that, "our journey is not complete," and called for unity in Washington. "We cannot mistake absolutism for principle, or substitute spectacle for politics, or treat name-calling as reasoned debate," Obama said. "We must act, knowing that our work will be imperfect. We must act, knowing that today's victories will be only partial, and that it will be up to those who stand here in four years, and forty years, and four hundred years hence to advance the timeless spirit once conferred to us in a spare Philadelphia hall." His remarks were a not-so-subtle call for greater effort from politicians to put aside partisan bickering and come together to work toward common goals.

Although the thesis of the President's speech was one proposing apolitical compromise; those on the left and right acknowledged that much of the speech's body highlighted liberal policies that the President is likely to pursue in his next term, including immigration reform, gay issues, defending entitlement spending and pressing for further equality for women. These issues appeared to many pundits as a thank you to the election coalition the Democratic party put together to defeat Republican rival Mitt Romney. The crowd on hand, which was projected as smaller than Obama's first inauguration, and official guests were comprised of representatives of these groups. Latina Justice Sonia Sotomayor swore in Vice President Joe Biden, and actress Eva Longoria co-chaired the inauguration planning committee. Blacks, Latinos, gays, single women and those under 30 were groups Obama carried in the November election.

Obama's calls for collective action also highlighted future division as the U.S. is poised to default on many debts if the debt limit is not raised. The President also pointed to how Americans cannot truly be free because of "a privileged few." He went on to criticize Congress and former Republican Vice Presidential nominee Paul Ryan's strategy to reform entitlement spending during the campaign last year. "The commitments we make to each other -- through Medicare, and Medicaid, and Social Security -- these things do not sap our initiative; they strengthen us. They do not make us a nation of takers; they free us to take the risks that make this country great," he said.

Some remain skeptical of whether the President can accomplish any of the agenda he laid out in the inauguration speech, which was peppered with specific policy points usually reserved for State of the Union speeches, according to a recent CNN poll. Three quarters of those surveyed believed the country was more divided than it has been in years. 54 percent believe the President will be an outstanding or an above average President, roughly the same number as President George W. Bush during his second inauguration. A separate poll also averaged Obama's first term poll numbers that, when averaged, ranked the third lowest of any President since WWII.

After the swearing in ceremony, the President signed documents formally nominating his new cabinet officials and took in the sights of the Inauguration Day parade.

thechargertimes

@thechargertimes

ace presents
NICKELODEON™
Throwback night

saturday, January 26th
8 p.m. UC exhibit hall

BOWLING
with
ACE

Wednesday, January 30
Parkway Lanes - Memorial Parkway

Buses leave the UC @ 8 p.m.

thechargertimes

Follow us to get up to date news!

@thechargertimes

Interested in writing for the Charger Times? Email us at: chargertimes@uah.edu

Arts and Leisure

Photo Credit: Kate McNeil

Cuisine for the comic crazy

By Ashley Baker, Staff Writer

Hunger is Vanquished, Dinner is Saved
*Supper Heroes, 1812
Winchester Rd. Huntsville, AL*

Atmosphere: 8/10
Service: 10/10
Food: 7/10
Price: 7/10
Overall: 8/10

The mark of a good restaurant is not the size but the creativity of its staff. At Supper Heroes, creativity abounds from the decor to the menu.

When asked to describe Supper Heroes in one sentence, co-owner Mark Woodard said, "Diner food, drive-in speed, dive attitude," and that is a very accurate representation of his restaurant.

As for decor, Supper Heroes is decked out in comic books, action figures and even a vivid mural of Spider-Man. While kitschy, the decor provides a certain nostalgia that even non-comic book fans can appreciate. You can expect a moderate wait, around 20 minutes, when dining during dinner hours, but there is a comfortable Batman-themed waiting area to satisfy your superhero craving until you are seated.

The staff is very friendly and attentive. My waitress for the evening, Alena, was particularly helpful with menu items and making sure everything got to me correctly and on time. For the appetizer, I indulged in a basket of All-In Pickle Chips. They were crispy with a touch of spice and served with SH's in-house ranch dressing. These chips have to be the best I have ever eaten. I also ordered a Zebra Cake Milkshake, which was subpar at best. The milkshake tasted like a Little Debbie cake had just been left to soften in the milk, definitely not worth the $5 price point.

As for entrees, the shining star is the burger list. Packed with variety, the selection is a difficult one, but I went with the Used Car Salesman, a 7 oz. burger with your favorite cheese and served on an egg bun. I am a sucker for waffle fries and SH's did not disappoint. Portions were a little small for the price, $8, but the juicy burger and waffle fries make up for it. Another gem is Mom's House, bacon wrapped meatloaf served with parmesan mashed potatoes, orange glazed carrots and green bean casserole. The meatloaf is glazed with a chipotle honey sauce that adds a nice spiciness that I have never experienced in a meatloaf.

All in all, SH is a casual place to bring your kids or even nostalgic friends for a tasty meal with great atmosphere and lovely staff. Supper Heroes offers a wide range of selections and certainly has a meal for every hero!

Photo Credit: Leon Kennedy

Choosing the Simple Life

By Nhu-An Nguyen, Staff Writer

As cliché as it sounds, many of us graduate from high school with the goal of discovering ourselves in college. In pursuit of that goal we travel, move across the country or make crazy decisions that could only be made while we are young. Kyle Dennis, a standout Bob Jones High School basketball player, signed to play Division I basketball at Gardner-Webb University with a full scholarship. Today, he is a marketing major here at UAHuntsville launching a clothing brand.

When asked about how he went from a DI athlete to a college entrepreneur studying at UAH, Kyle described his rigorous schedule playing for Gardner-Webb and the restrictive rules he was expected to live under.

"I didn't like the structure of not having any freedom to control the structure of my own life... It didn't make me happy or excited to go to practice or do the little things you have to as a college athlete," Dennis said. His vision of the Simple Life brand and its details began during his time at GWU. It was when he finally decided to leave GWU that he launched this exciting vision along with his business partners and high school friends, Fred Williams, who handles the website, and Gary McKelvy, who is in charge of graphic design.

Today the Simple Life Clothing brand offers high-quality and comfortable T-shirts, sweatshirts and hats that can be described as having a "Life Is Good" message/look with "an artistic design and feel." Orders have come in from all over the states, from Louisiana to New York. They started SLC with the hope of creating a message-based brand, one that embodies their slogan, "Life's Simple, Enjoy It." The guys are currently working with stores like Kin-nucan's and the Locker Room in Auburn to carry SLC merchandise. Their brand is truly as much about the message as it is about the clothing. The SLC twitter and blog share a constant flow of updates, offering insight and motivational messages to followers. It is obvious that Dennis has never been happier.

The story of the Simple Life clothing brand and its founders is worth hearing about. Kyle and Fred were college athletes who decided not to settle with their lifestyles before Simple Life. Since then, they, along with Gary, have been happier than ever, truly enjoying life as both entrepreneurs and students. The message here is that no matter how great your life or accomplishments look on paper, if you do not love what you are doing or what you are pursuing, you will never know how much happier you could be. Life is simple, enjoy it.

Check out SimpleLifeLLC.com to see what they have to offer. For regular Simple Life updates follow the Simple Life twitter @SLCCompany, and check out the brand's blog, simplelife-clothing.blogspot.com.

Zero Dark Thirty: The hunt for Bin Laden

By Paul Sorrells, Staff Writer

Director Kathryn Bigelow's follow-up to her Best Picture-winning "Hurt Locker" on the surface appears to be a fairly straightforward retelling of the hunt for Osama Bin Laden. Below the surface however lies both a character study and a story of obsession.

The main character of the movie is Maya played by rising star Jessica Chastain in an Oscar-nominated performance. She goes from being the newest member of the hunt for Osama Bin Laden at the beginning of the movie to eight years later being the only member still actively pursuing the target. Some of her colleagues are killed in bombings; she herself narrowly avoids being killed, while others simply grow tired of following endless leads to no avail. Her almost fanatical fixation on finding Bin Laden takes its toll on her physically and emotionally as interrogations go nowhere and the priority of her superiors goes to other areas. Eventually one of her hunches proves correct and after much debate, a team of Navy Seals equipped with stealth Helicopters is deployed to hit the target. The Seal raid on Bin Laden's complex is one of the finest scenes of the year, having little or no musical cues to distract from what is happening on the screen.

Jessica Chastain's performance has been widely regarded as one of the best of the year. She is both helped and hurt by the script, which a lot of times seems just an excuse to throw out witty dialogue, but it also offers a nuanced look at a character defined by her goal of finding Bin Laden. While some of her partners take office jobs or positions elsewhere, Maya cannot shake her obsession with finding her target. One of the most haunting images of the film is the last scene where Maya is about to be flown home. She is the only passenger on the flight and the pilot comes down and asks her where she wants to go. For a long time she is silent and then begins to cry as the screen cuts to credits. She has spent her entire career obsessively pursuing one goal and now that she has accomplished it she has no idea what to do.

"Zero Dark Thirty" has been nominated for five Academy Awards including Best Picture, which it is considered one of the favorites to win. However it is also one of the most controversial movies of the year. Its interrogation scenes have been said to show that the film has a pro-torture stance. Whether or not it does is irrelevant, the movie shows what happened in the hunt for Bin Laden and everyone it affected along the way. From a cinematic standpoint the scenes are integral in Maya's initiation into the hunt for Bin Laden and the film would not be complete without them.

"Zero Dark Thirty" is one of the best films of the year however a few things hold it back, the first thirty minutes are not exactly a textbook example of how to start a movie however the movie eventually catches its stride and ends up being one of the most compelling films in the race for Best Picture.

There's a New Sheriff in Town... Arnold's Back

By Samuel Gibby, Staff Writer

In the 1980s and 1990s there was no other actor that kicked as much butt and coined as many catchphrases as Arnold Schwarzenegger. Despite some recent character issues, I admit I am still a big fan of his films. His latest outing, "The Last Stand," has Schwarzenegger in his first leading role in 10 years. I was especially hyped for this film when it was announced that Kim Wi-Joon, the director of the excellent neo-Western "The Good, the Bad, and the Weird," directed this movie.

In this film, a drug kingpin named Gabirel Cortez, portrayed by Eduardo Noriega, escapes FBI custody and speeds to the Mexican border in his custom 1000-horsepower Chevrolet Corvette C6 ZR1. The only thing that can stop this drug cartel leader from escaping the U.S. government's pursuit is a small town sheriff (Arnold Schwarzenegger) and his very inexperienced deputies.

I enjoyed this movie. Arnold Schwarzenegger's catchphrases were admittedly not as catchy as those in his previous films, but he still delivered some great action sequences. The villain in this film was decent, but nothing outstanding. The one actor that I was worried would ruin the movie was Johnny Knoxville, who I am not a fan of, but fortunately he was passable in this film. The rest of the cast was for the most part passable. This film often times poked fun at itself, but not to the point that it ruined the movie.

Overall, if you are expecting a smart thriller instead of a dumb action film you will be sorely disappointed. If you walk into it expecting an escapist-yet-fun movie then this will definitely fit the bill.

We will stitch on your items
Engraved jewelry
Print t-shirts 1-100+
Personalized license plates, keychains, luggage tags, & koozies.
UAH alum
Hours:
Tuesday - Friday 10-5:30
Saturday 10-2

Robin's Nest Monogramming

Present this ad for 10% off a single item
(Excludes Heartstrings)

Taylor's Barber Shop
11309 Memorial Parkway Southwest
Huntsville, AL 35803
$13 haircut

SPORTS

Want to advertise with The Charger Times? UAH clients get 20% discount! Email us @ chargertimes@uah.edu

@thechargertimes
Follow us to get up to date news!

Chargers drop another at home

By Andy Donovan, Sports Reporter

The University of Alabama-Huntsville men's basketball team dropped their second straight home game on Saturday, losing to rival North Alabama by a final score of 81-71.

UAH entered the rivalry game with a 13-2 record and a No. 9 national ranking after they dropped a home contest to Delta State last weekend. UNA entered with an 11-3 record and a 5-2 record in the Gulf South Conference. The winner of Saturday's contest would hold a share of first place in the GSC. UAH and UNA have a storied rivalry, with UAH having the upper edge as of late. Entering Saturday's contest, the Chargers had swept the last 7 contests with the Lions.

Saturday's game was played in front of a nearly sold out crowd of just under 2,500 people. The Chargers got off to a quick start in the first half and roared out to a 17-point lead with just under 8 minutes to play in the first half. The visitors fought back to close the margin to 42-36 at the intermission. The Lions shot 52 percent in the second half on their way to outscoring the hosts 45-29 in the second half sending them to victory.

The Chargers will look to recover this Saturday when they travel to Rome, Ga. to take on Shorter University. Shorter is a new addition to the GSC, but has fared well in their inaugural season, compiling a 6-2 record up to this point. The Hawks will be looking to prove themselves against the Chargers at home on Saturday. The game will be played at 3 p.m. and can be followed online at www.uahchargers.com.

Photo Credit:UAH Sports

You've just been Te' oed

By Jeff Carr, Sports Reporter

Remember having an imaginary friend as a kid? Whether or not you care to admit it, you and your imaginary friend probably never made the news. Unfortunately for him, Notre Dame Linebacker Manti Te'o's did.

Te'o, this year's Heisman Award runner-up, made some confusing headlines this past week. In case you are unfamiliar with the story, Te'o played the entire year under the shadow of the death of his girlfriend, Lennay Kekua, at least that is what America thought. As it turns out, Lennay Kekua does not exist. Confusing right? There is more.

Deadspin.com did a long, remarkable investigative story into the events surrounding Manti Te'o and his fabled girlfriend. The facts presented in that article seem to point to some weird conspiracy, something that Manti Te'o appeared to be a part of.

Since the article's release, however, there has been major media coverage of the story and many people who Deadspin.com connects to the story have come out and said that it was all a hoax and that Te'o was a victim of a cruel joke.

After having seen this story you may be asking "What is the big deal? It is not as if this hurts anyone." There are two reasons that this story is so big: the effect that the death of Te'o's girlfriend had on his Heisman votes and the oversight of facts by the media regarding the story of Kekua's death.

The Heisman Trophy is college football's highest honor. Every year it is given to the nation's best player. This year Manti Te'o finished second in the Heisman vote behind Texas A&M Quarterback Johnny Manziel. Te'o had a great year, but some voted for him for another reason besides performance. The most notable and named Heisman voter in this story is current Sports Illustrated writer Thayer Evans. Evans put Manti Te'o at No. 1 on his ballot over Johnny Manziel. When asked about why he did that he said this:

"Te'o has been a saint during Notre Dame's miracle season. He is the best player on the nation's top scoring defense and has been an inspiration for all in overcoming the deaths of his grandmother and girlfriend during a 24-hour period in September. Unfortunately, Te'o won't win the Heisman Trophy, but he embodies everything the award's winner should be both on and off the field." (Courtesy of thebiglead.com)

It makes you wonder how the vote would have gone if the story of Te'o's girlfriend's death was found out to be a lie all along? Which leads to the question: where is the fact checking in the media?

The writer who introduced the story is another Sports Illustrated writer, Pete Thamel. If you remember the story of the Kentucky basketball player that was not, Enes Kanter, then you remember Pete Thamel. He went on an extensive fact finding trip that ultimately led to the NCAA disqualifying him from playing. Kanter was drafted in the NBA the next summer.

So Thamel is used to getting his facts straight, or so it appeared. His article in the Oct. 1 issue of Sports Illustrated spring-boarded the media coverage of the "Manti Te'o for Heisman due to playing through adversity" story. We now know this all to be a lie, which leads to some skepticism involving the Media.

Not only did Sports Illustrated cover this, but so did ESPN. The Los Angeles Times ran a piece on Lennay Kekua's "funeral," and the day of the National Championship CBS ran a story about Kekua and Te'o and even showed her picture. Given that people now know this story to be a fabrication, why did the media not know this? How many stories are fabrications that the public do not find out about? You can bet editors and producers will pay close attention to the facts after this fiasco.

Whether you side with the conspiracy theorists, or the story that Te'o was a victim, one thing is clear, this is a strange story. It has to be one of the strangest things the media has ever covered. Some are trying to make light of the story, as an independent minor league baseball team in Kentucky, the Florence Freedom, have announced a Manti Te'o Girlfriend promotional day. The first few hundred fans will receive an empty bobble head box at the gates and there will be an imaginary kiss cam and an air guitar contest. Some people just know how to find the bright side of any story.

Photo Credit:UAH Sports

Struggles hit both Legendary teams Lakers and Celtics

By Edgar Lopez, Sports Reporter

The Lakers and Celtics are both legendary teams, yet they continue to struggle with their star-studded squads. The Lakers have a record of 17-24 struggling to be consistent in both scoring and their dismal defense, which is No. 25 in the league. The Celtics have had their ups and downs; they have had great weeks followed by terrible weeks, and currently stand at 20-20. Coach Doc Rivers is contemplating a possible trade.

The most intriguing story is currently the Indiana Pacers' resurgence. The Pacers are currently No. 3 in the Eastern Conference and with great young players like Paul George, Danny Granger and big man Roy Hibbert, they are a team to be scared of. The Pacers have a fierce defense ranked No. 1 overall in points allowed, and a great low-post game making them dangerous.

The player to watch this week is Carlos Boozer. The Boozer the Bull fans are used to is in the past, Boozer has regained his All-Star status. Boozer is averaging a career high in rebounds, a great 16.1 points per game and helping the Bulls to a fifth seed in the Eastern conference without superstar Derrick Rose.

thechargertimes

@thechargertimes

Follow us to get up to date news!

Interested in writing for the Charger Times?

Email us at: chargertimes@uah.edu

Help support the Neonatal ICU at Huntsville Hospital for Women & Children by attending the Havoc's "Melissa George Night" January 26! During the game against the Knoxville Ice Bears, Havoc players will wear special jerseys bearing the Melissa George Fund logo and the handprints of babies who have been patients in the NICU. The jerseys will be auctioned off to fans after the game, and the proceeds will benefit the Melissa George Neonatal Memorial Fund at Huntsville Hospital Foundation.

Arrive early because the first 500 fans who bring an item for the NICU – such as clothing, caps, booties, blankets and disposable cameras - will receive a FREE Havoc "Melissa George Night" toboggan!

Tickets can be purchased at the VBC Box Office or at www.ticketmaster.com.

10 Week Campus-Wide FITNESS COMPETITION

Open to all Faculty, Staff, Students, and Alumni

Kicks Off January 28, 2013

FUN • FITNESS • COOL PRIZES

UAHuntsville's 8th annual fitness competition encourages the UAHuntsville community to get up and get moving! Members form teams and set personal fitness goals. Activity is tracked online and prizes are awarded to the top teams.

As a result of the Just Move It program, UAHuntsville was ranked as one of the 20 Fittest Colleges In America (MSN, Fitble) in 2012. Try Just Move It and see what it can do for you!

For more information, contact:

www.uah.edu/jmi | jmi@uah.edu | 256.824.6007

UAHuntsville

Tasty Tuesday

Featuring:

- January
  - 8th-Taco Tuesday
  - 15th-Cotton Candy
  - 22nd-Caramel Corn
  - 29th-Soup-er Bowl Tuesday
- February
  - 5th-Nachos
  - 12th-Cupcakes
  - 19th-Chicken Sandwiches
  - 26th-Chocolate Fountain

2pm-4pm
University Center

JUST FOR FUN.

Go to www.Printable-Puzzles.com for hints and solutions!

Puzzle ID: #Q171YW

Across

- 1. Free babysitter, maybe
- 5. Veer
- 10. Unfermented grape juice
- 14. Malay sail canoe
- 15. Lullaby syllables
- 16. Oriol feature
- 17. Impressive event
- 19. ___ la Douce
- 20. Former senator Gorton
- 21. Allowed to enter
- 23. Ospreys' cousins
- 26. Pespacious
- 27. Liqueur found in a grasshopper
- 32. Was afflicted with
- 33. Restaurant chain known for its root beer floats
- 34. Tom of "The Dukes of Hazzard"
- 38. Does the chasing in tag
- 40. Muslim's holy book
- 42. "And stay by my cradle till morning is ___"
- 43. Vertically, in nautical talk

Down

- 45. "Today" forecaster
- 47. Oil-can letters
- 48. Flaubert classic
- 51. Michael ___ Cochise player in 1950s TV
- 54. Cheap digs: Abbr.
- 55. Native American game
- 58. Canterbury hat
- 62. 1102, in dates
- 63. Ice score from field endings
- 66. "Moses und ___"
- 67. South American wildcats
- 68. Big Apple abbr.
- 69. Wants
- 70. Place to get all steamed up
- 71. Old jet-set jets
- 24. Bismarck is its cap
- 25. Madrid Mrs.
- 27. Popular plant "pet"
- 28. Hoarseness
- 29. "The Sopranos" actress Falco
- 30. Modern encyclopedia medium
- 31. Stirs
- 35. Leaning Tower's home
- 36. Culture medium gelatin
- 37. "... the harder ___ fall"
- 39. Marmosets of S.America
- 41. Warren Buffett's home: Abbr.
- 44. Brand of syrup
- 46. Capacious
- 49. Morse code bits
- 50. Churchill flashed them during W.W. II
- 51. Makeup maker
- 52. Mother-of-pearl
- 53. Offspring
- 56. Sauce bean
- 57. Stockings shade
- 59. Christmas buys
- 60. Long-winded complaint
- 61. Tarzan player Ron and others
- 64. State west of Mo.
- 65. That, in Chihuahua

Word Search Puzzle #D528QU

V C O E G T E N O R P A P B
 A H Y D N A D E K A L F T J
 L I L I B I I D O N O R C
 U R L O R D T S G V G G E R
 E P A A E O O T D E I M L E
 S S U L T M R E E F S V L E
 E P S T T E A K D S E T I K
 E R U E U N X C U H D R S D
 G U O R L S Y A L E R I P H
 N C N A V D W R C E Q C R D
 I I I I R E R A E L C K A E
 W N U N C S Y I S I I Y Y E
 O G R Y Y E O O G N A M O R
 R E I D D U R N R G R I E F

- |          |         |          |          |
|----------|---------|----------|----------|
| Abdomens | Digests | Nicer    | Spray    |
| Alter    | Donor   | Purveyor | Sprucing |
| Angle    | Editor  | Rackets  | Trellis  |
| Apron    | Flaked  | Rainy    | Tricky   |
| Arson    | Freed   | Reefs    | Usually  |
| Cameo    | Geese   | Relays   | Uttering |
| Chirps   | Girdles | Roman    | Values   |
| Clearer  | Goopy   | Rowing   | Vivid    |
| Clime    | Grief   | Ruddier  |          |
| Creek    | Heeling | Ruinous  |          |
| Dandy    | Kites   | Secluded |          |
| Design   | Latex   | Splint   |          |

Copyright © Puzzle Baron January 22, 2013 - Go to www.Printable-Puzzles.com for Hints and Solutions!

	4		7
7			3			9
	5		2	9	4	3
6	1		9
			5
			4		1	5
4		3	8	1		2
5				3		4
			9			6

				2		6
		1		3
6	9				8	2
3				1	8	5
9						4
	7		2	5		1
4		6				9
				6		1
	8		9

EVENT CALENDAR

by Rachel Palazzo

Thursday, 1/24

- RUF 7-8 p.m. @ University Center Downstairs (old game room)
- Pamper Me Pretty 7:08-9:08 p.m. @ UC Exhibit Hall

Friday, 1/25

- Alumni Lunch & Learn with Dr. Lillian Joyce Discussing Pompeii 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. @ Shelby Center Rom 301
- Sandella's Sounds 9-11 p.m. @ Sandella's in the UC

Sunday, 1/27

- Blue Man Group 7-10 p.m. @ Von Braun Center

Monday, 1/28

- Just Move It, 8 a.m., ends Sunday, April 7, 8 a.m. @ UAH campus
- Salsa Club Lessons 7-9 p.m. @ UC Exhibit Hall A

Tuesday, 1/29

- Tasty Tuesday 2-4 p.m. @ UC Entrance
- Cru Weekly Meeting 8:48-10 p.m. @ Charger cafe in UC

Wednesday, 1/30

- Get Connectable 5:30-8 p.m. @ LIB 207
- "Get a Job or Die Tryin'" 7-9 p.m. @ South East Campus Lounge 706 C lounge

Have an event?
 Email ctal@uah.edu