SGA Budget Approved By Student Legislature

The Student Legislature approved the SGA budget for the coming year at its second meeting September 30.

The largest item on the budget was $4,000 for a revolving entertainment fund. During the discussion prior to passage of the budget, President Wayne Black explained that the fund was intended to be used to bring prominent entertainers to town for the students. Hopefully, he added, admission from those who have not paid the activity fee will keep the fund replenished.

Two thousand dollars was appropriated to help the administration establish the new University Cultural Series. Under this arrangement, three cultural events will be staged this year: a presentation of Shakespeare's "Tempest" by the American Classical Theatre, a guitar concert by Jorge Morel, and a show by Jose Molina's Bailes Espanoles, a touring group that features Spanish dances.

An additional $1250 was set aside for social events.

The budget also included $500 to help finance an upcoming lecture series. According to President Black, this donation will make it possible for students who have paid the activity fee to attend the lectures at a reduced rate.

The appropriation for the Univala came to $2,871. This was slightly more than the $2685.19 originally requested by the newspaper but denied it permission to spend an estimated $3000 anticipated income.

Dr. Margaret Bond, faculty advisor for the SGA, protested that such an arrangement would remove all incentive for the newspaper to solicit ads and prevent it from becoming a self-sustaining organization.

Subsequently, the proposed budget was amended to allow the Publication Board to dispose of the newspaper's income as it saw fit.

Other items in the budget were: telephones, $50; office supplies, $75; general expenses, $100; television set for student lounge, $200; secretarial service, $220; electric typewriter $355; rowing team, $750; student directory, $250; bulletin board, $50; trophy case, $150.

The total appropriated in the budget was $12,831. With an estimated $17,000 from activity fees, $4,149 was left as an uncommitted reserve.

The budget was approved as submitted by the Finance Board except for the amendment placing the income of the Univala at the disposal of the Publications board.

In further business, President Wayne Black called for a report of the committee appointed at the first meeting September 22 to study the matter of the inauguration of SGA officers. Chairman Bill Abernathy reported the committee's recommendation to have a banquet for SGA members during which the new officers would be installed and which would be followed by a dance

Eight Students Selected for Honor Council

The Student Legislature selected eight students to fill the new Honor Council at its second regular session this year on September 30.

The eight chosen are Patty Bowman, Dennis Chandler, Richard Coleman, Frank Doolittle, Roger Gilbert, Judy Gilson, Dave Hargrave, and Joy Richardson.

In addition to the student members, the council includes Dr. Charley Scott, director of academic affairs, and Dr. Billy G. Gunter, assistant professor of sociology.

The Honor Council has the responsibility of forming and enforcing an Honor Code by which students at UAH will be expected to abide. The previous council was not organized until the middle of the school year and fell short of this goal.

Selection of the students had been held over from the first session of the new Legislature on September 22, when the representatives were unable to nominate enough candidates to fill the vacancies.

At an earlier meeting, the Legislature re-elected Dr. Margaret Bond as faculty advisor for the SGA. The motion that she be continued, made by Tommy Dashner and seconded by Mike Deegan, was carried unanimously.

Immediately before the vote, President Wayne Black and several legislators praised Dr. Bond's record for the past year. Her policy of encouraging officers and legislators to work out problems for themselves was the object of special compliment.

Legislator Kay Williams was chosen to represent the Legislature on the Finance Board and Jim Kimbrough was named Historian. After the latter's selection, the Legislature voted to set aside money to purchase a scrapbook for his use.

New UAH Choir Now Totals 32

The newly organized UAH choir, which rehearses under the direction of assistant professor of music D. Royce Boyer, now includes thirty-two singers and an accompanist.

Leola Agee, Christine Grant, Linda Gustafson, Suzanne Herring, Vertricia Jordan, Shiela Marchant, Annette Miller, Sherie Moore, Patricia Shannon, and Sharon Yarbrough carry the soprano part.

The alto part is sung by Sheri Armstrong, Doris Barbarash, Beverly Hillis, Benita Mann, Carol Morton, Noel Roberts, Phyllis Stokes, Gudrun Wagner, and Pat Woodis.

Tenors are Frank Alexander, Michael Amsberry, Robert Grant, David Mangham, and Glenn Watson.

The bass section is composed of Rick Coleman, Henry Hall, Jim Hutto, Don Loden, Jeff Northrop, Karl Reich, Gary Stacey, and Bob Stiles.

Carolyn Gannon is the choir's accompanist.

The ensemble is currently preparing for the campus functions and local civic activities it plans to start performing for in early November.

Included in the music being prepared is a medley from the Broadway musical hit "Camelot", the title song from Meredith Willson's "Here's Love", and Jean Berger's "The Lord Giveth Wisdom."

Mr. Boyer anticipates a number of social events for the choir as well as performances. A get-acquainted party has already been held at his home.

Officers for the choir have been chosen on an interim basis until the members become more familiar with one another. The current officers are: Frank Alexander, president; Henry Hall, vice-president; Gudrun Wagner, secretary-treasurer; and Sheila Marchant and Rick Coleman, co-social chairman.

Membership in the group will be reopened at the beginning of the winter quarter. Students enrolled in the choir receive one hour of credit and may repeat the course as long as they are at UAH.

66 - 67 Oarsmen Off and Rowing

The University of Alabama, Huntsville Campus Crew has been in fall training for four weeks. The coach, John McHugh, is pleased with the progress, but states that more men are needed.

At present the crew has twenty members: Scott Anderson, Ted Huntley, Don Loden, Tom May, Gary Kinslow, John Trenkle, Glenn Watson, Stan Schmitt, Gary Darby, Dennis Faber, Norman Marsden, Royce Price, Andre Nageon de Lestang, Rick Jerome Belcher, Darryl Glassco, David Hubbard, Jim Robinson, and Dick Van Fossen; Bill Abernathy, Bill Coffee, and Joe Traylor serve as coxswains. Rick Coleman was appointed temporary captain and Gary Darby, vice-captain.

The crew is still seeking additional members. Anyone desiring further information should contact a member of the rowing team. (See "DAYS" on Page 3)

Constitution

Work Is Cut Out for Students

SGA President Wayne Black's withdrawal from his classes has presented student government at UAH with a question of constitutional intention.

The issue hinges, first of all, upon the question of whether withdrawal from school constitutes an automatic resignation for an elected student officer.

The only word on the subject in the SGA constitution is the statement that any candidate for student office must have sufficient time in his division to complete a term in that office. Whether or not this rule should apply to unforeseen absences from school will have to be a matter of interpretation.

If it turns out that Black's withdrawal constitutes a resignation or if he submits one formally, the problem of what to do for a vice-president when Ron Sanders moves up to the number 1 spot will be greatly simplified.

The constitution states that it is the duty of the Elections Board to hold an election to fill the office of vice-president within two weeks of receiving certification of a vacancy in that office.

A Matter of Policy

Letters Can Broaden Paper's Point of View

One of the dangers of the newspaper editorial is that, in trying to give guidance and leadership, it may lead its readers in a direction not in their best interests. Compounding this danger is the fact that the editorial voice of a newspaper is necessarily an expression of a single point of view.

A much used and frequently rewarding means of combatting this danger is to open the paper's editorial page to columnists with varying points of view. The advantage of a variety of perspectives lies in the increased possibility of arriving at the truth. The risk is that the columnists might be either unable or unwilling to base their opinions on facts.

This risk is the very reason that the Univala does not intend to employ general columnists on its editorial page in the near future. So far no student at UAH has been found to have the combination of eloquence and contact with reality that is desirable in such a columnist.

Fortunately, the odds are much better that there are students here who will have something constructive to say about specific issues. Should any student ever feel that he is in such a position, he would do the entire University a service by voicing his feelings through a letter.

It is true that letters to the editor are frequently written in a moment of passion and

Since the SGA president is the chairman of the board, it is probably his responsibility to inform the board of such a vacancy. Thus, if it is decided that Black is no longer president, Ron Sanders can in theory take over the chairmanship and inform the board that his old office, that of the vice-president, is vacant.

Probably, by the time this issue is distributed, the two officers involved and the Elections Board will be able to offer a solution to this problem.

Regardless of what they decide, though, the conditions governing resignations will continue to haunt students at UAH as long as the SGA constitution is as vague on the matter as it is now.

In this sense, Wayne Black's withdrawal points to one of the main tasks faced by the SGA - that of overcoming the inadequacies of the present constitution. Until its faults are corrected and its weaknesses strengthened, student government will continue to be beset by periods of doubt and indecision.

come out filled with more emotionalism than reason. To an editor who strives to make his paper a model of reason, reading such letters is sometimes depressing. Yet, since a well written letter can be of such a value to a paper's readers, the Univala will print as many letters as possible with only two general restrictions.

First, the Univala will reserve the right to reject a letter containing obscene or libelous matter. It is true that this rule requires a decision on the part of the editor. Yet, it is necessary because libel and obscenity laws place responsibility for printed matter upon the publisher rather than the writer.

The second rule is easier to apply. The Univala simply will not print a letter that does not identify its sender by name and address. For it is not possible to encourage responsible discussions in a climate of secrecy. Nor is it just that anyone be exempted from responsibility for his attempts to influence others. These then, are the only criteria the Univala will use in judging letters. There may be some criticism of the laxity of these rules but if it leaves writers with enough freedom to start a serious discussion, it will be justified.

Any student who feels he has something important to say to his fellow students can start by dropping a letter in box 43 in the faculty lounge in Morton Hall. Just be sure it is in by noon on the Wednesday prior to publication.

Lions Sponsor Peace Essay Contest

Students at UAH who will be under 22 as of January 15, 1967, are eligible for the Lions International essay contest on peace, according to Jim Allen, president of the Space City Lions Club.

"The purpose of the contest," Allen said, "is to develop a formula for world peace because we feel world peace is attainable."

The contest offers a total of $50,000 in awards including the $25,000 first prize which will be administered by the International Association of Lions Clubs as an educational and/or career assistance grant for the winner.

The Grand Prize winner will be chosen from eight world geographical division winners each of which will receive a $1000 cash prize, a gold medal, and a travel-expense paid trip to the finals at the Lions 50th Anniversary Convention in Chicago next July.

Other awards will be given on the club, district, and multiple district levels.

Allen states that entries should be submitted in essay form, not to exceed 5,000 words.

"Judging will fall into four categories: 75 points will be devoted to content, 10 to organization, 10 to style, and five to mechanics."

Closing date for the local club's contest is December 10, 1966. Further information may be obtained by contacting a member of the Space City Lions Club.

UGF Campaign Total Still Mounting

Pledges to the UAH United Givers Fund campaign were approaching $2000 at press time last week.

Of this amount, 39% had already been received in the form of direct contributions. Part of the remainder will be paid over the coming year through payroll deductions.

The campaign, directed by W. P. Watts, administrative manager of the Research Institute, was a concerted appeal to all University personnel - faculty and administrative staff alike. At last word, 33% of those contacted had submitted pledges.

Mr. Watts expressed hope that the drive will be successfully concluded with a high degree of participation in the near future.

Capstone Commentary

The University of Alabama has recently established a Marine Sciences Institute on the Alabama Gulf Coast.

The Institute, an interdisciplinary joint project of the U. of A. at Tuscaloosa and the University Medical Center, will have research and teaching duties.

Temporary quarters have been established at Bayou La Barte pending construction of the main buildings. Dr. George A. Rounsefell has been named director of the institute.

Three renowned scholars have been appointed to the University of Alabama's new Distinguished Visiting Professor program.

The three are Dr. Daniel J. Boorstin, professor of American history at the University of Chicago; Dr. Herbert J. Muller, professor of English and of international relations at the University of Groningen, The Netherlands.

The program was initiated as a result of expressed student interest and was implemented by a joint student-faculty committee.

Legislature Plans Dance

As of press time last week the Student Legislature was planning to follow up next Tuesday's presentation of "The Tempest" with a dance, November 5.

The dance, a strictly informal affair, will run from 7:30 p.m. to midnight at the Fort Raymond Jones National Guard Armory.

Students who have paid their activity fee will be admitted at no cost. Admission for all others will be $1.

Music will be provided by a local group known as "The Soul Seekers."

Government Association, was among those who assisted in developing the program.

Legal implications of political endorsements by the Crimson-White are being investigated.

In the past, C-W editorials and columns have been neutral in local, state, and national elections. Letters containing political opinions have been printed freely, however.

This policy is based upon the fact that funds for publishing the newspaper come from assessments made on all students.

Last spring, a C-W writer questioned whether this rule should apply to columnists. His own preference, however, was expressed in a letter.

Now it is being asked whether the paper's official editorials should be freed from the restrictions.

Dr. Hudson Strode, professor emeritus of English has recently published "Jefferson Davis, Private Letters, 1823 - 1889."

This work complements Dr. Strode's three biographical works on the Confederate President. Many of the letters in it have never before been published.

Homecoming festivities, November 12, will be highlighted by the appearance of Alabama alumnus Jim Nabors, better known as "Gomer Pyle."

The Sylacauga native will ride in the Saturday morning parade after which he will be guest of honor at the annual alumni luncheon.

He will also be on hand for the game with Paul Dietzel's Gamecocks.

Nabors, who graduated from the University in 1952, gave his first public performance at a campus variety show in his senior year.

Sunday Hours Endangered

The opening of the library from 2 to 5 on Sunday afternoons on a trial basis may not be renewed next quarter if there is not a greater response. Librarian Christel McCanless warns.

According to Mrs. McCanless there have been no more than ten students in the library at one time on any day of this quarter.

The trial was initiated at the request of the English and history departments which felt that their students could better prepare for Monday classes if the library were open over the weekend, she said.

Sunday afternoon was chosen because it was thought that students would be more interested in studying than any other time of the weekend.

To get a better idea of the usefulness of the new hours, the library has been asking students to fill out questionnaires giving their reasons for being in the library then.

Diary of an Oarsman

DAYS IN THE LIFE OF A ROWING TEAM

By Rick Coleman

September 30, 1965. Today an announcement appeared on the bulletin board about the formation of a Rowing Team. It sounded interesting so I decided to go to the meeting. Four people showed up. The coach's name is John McHugh but the last crew he coached called him something else.

October 10, 1965. We finally got our first shell, if you can call it that. It is an old German-made boat. Our crew now has twelve members and one coxswain. We started practice at Whitesburg Boat Landing.

October 11, 1965. We are learning slowly to row by two's and four's.

October 13, 1965. Two more men joined today making a total of fourteen. Our misery was increased to day by broken oars and cold weather. We have to wade out into the water to launch the shell.

October 15, 1965. The Team now has two full crews. The first crew can almost row together. Tomorrow we must remember to move the rocks we almost landed on.

October 16, 1965. The weather is very cold today. Half the crew is absent. All have strange excuses. Coach keeps asking "How can you have a test in drawing?"

October 21, 1965. Today we had our pictures made for the newspaper. Someone tried to push the cameraman off the dock.

October 27, 1965. The crew can row fairly well by eight's without catching crabs. (For you land-lubbers "catching a crab" means letting your oar dive deep under water. This can capsize a boat.)

November 1, 1965. Today the port (left) side rowed on the starboard (right) side and the starboard rowed on port. Mass confusion reigned.

November 5, 1965. We are learning racing starts and practicing rowing at what we consider a high rate --twenty-six strokes per minute. (Most races are at 40 or more strokes per minute.)

November 6, 1965. Our twenty-seventh day of practice. We rowed ten miles today. We're dead.

November 9, 1965. The Harbor Master has asked us to leave. "Hey, does anyone know anything about a pocketknife?"

November 11, 1965. The boat finally went straight after being badly pulled toward starboard. Port side must be a bunch of gorillas.

November 16, 1965. Coach started to worry about grade point averages. If we drop too low it's "no row."

November 17, 1965. Arrangements are being made for two new shells. We're going to move to Madison County Lake; the harbor master doesn't like us.

November 21, 1965. We stopped rowing because the wind blew the boat off the stand. We don't have a shell any more.

February 14, 1966. Our new shells are due today.

March 12, 1966. Our new shells arrived today.

March 17, 1966. The team has been divided into a Varsity crew and a Junior Varsity. With a few substitutes.

The varsity is made up of: Pat Richardson, Brian Howard, Rick Coleman, Bob Stiles, Larry Morris, Bruce Tonetti, Mile Havaner, Harold Kasperich, and Dennis Faber. "Bunt" Abernathy is the varsity coxswain. Junior Varsity members are: Byrd Sherrill, John Johnson, Scott Reddings, Gary Darby, Scott Anderson, Norman Marsden, Ed Glymand, Bernie Griffin. Jerry Green is the J. V. coxswain and Bill Coffee is cameraman.

The Varsity started rowing 500 meter sprints. We've moved back to the river. Our new home is the State Boat Dock. A new ramp and launching slip were built for us.

April 2, 1966. Tomorrow we race Purdue. Our hopes are high but we will have to race in our old boat which we have painted white and dubbed the "White Whale."

April 3, 1966. We lost.

April 15, 1966. Today we left for Florida to row against Rollins and LaSalle. We had a great trip. "Hey, has anyone seen Morris?"

April 16, 1966. We worked out a little today but spent most of our time sightseeing. Tomorrow is the race.

April 17, 1966. We lost.

April 28, 1966. All hands landed in Tampa for The Florida State Championship. We may have a chance this time.

April 29, 1966. The hotel accommodations are great if you can ever get a key to your room, and have you met the weird fellow on the twelfth floor. Today the team made a study of the aerodynamics of paper airplanes. Do you realize that a paper airplane launched from the twelfth floor of a hotel, with proper updrafts will remain in flight for two minutes and thirty-nine seconds?

April 30, 1966. We came in fourth out of five. We're coming up. Since our rowing season is now over a party is planned for the return trip.

September 24, 1966. We began fall training. It's going to be a lot of work to get back in shape, but this year we have a chance of winning.

for the student body. After some discussion Jim Kimbrough made a motion to have the inauguration ceremonies in three parts including a banquet for the SGA members followed by the actual inauguration of the officers and a dance for the student body. This motion was seconded and passed.

Woody Beck then moved to create a seven member committee to handle the planning and preparations for the event. It was agreed, however, that interest in student activities could be increased by involving more students in the planning and carrying out of such activities. For this reason Mr. Beck withdrew his motion and instead nominated Jim Kimbrough to act as chairman of a committee to consist of a chairman coming from the SGA and of six other members chosen from the student body at large. This motion was passed after being seconded by Bill Abernathy.

Also, at the meeting the new Honor Council was selected (see story page 1) and a motion was passed making the President, Vice-President, and Secretary of the SGA the three student members of the Cultural Series Committee which is responsible for the new University Cultural Series.

Those attending the meeting were President, W. Black; Vice-President, R. Sanders; Secretary, J. Harris; Dr. M. Bond, Univala editor, W. Simmons; J. Hutto, B. Griffin, B. Abernathy, M. McPherson, C. Sullivan, W. Beck, J. Kimbrough, N. Roberts, K. Williams, M. Gibbs, T. Dashner, and S. Ayer.

'Tempest' Tickets Now on Public Sale

Tickets to the American Classical Theatre's production of Shakespeare's "The Tempest" went on sale to the general public yesterday.

This means that tickets are no longer reserved for students, faculty, and staff says D. Royce Boyer, chairman of the University Cultural Series Committee.

They will however, be able to obtain them at the information desk in Morton Hall on the same terms as before as long as the supply lasts.

Students who have paid the $5 activity fee may still obtain their free ticket and half-price ticket. Two half-price tickets will be available to faculty and staff members as long as they last.

Tickets are now on public sale at Andan News, the Book Shop in Dunnivant's Mall, Bookland in the Mall, and the temporary Civics Arts Center. No seats will be reserved.

"The Tempest," one of Shakespeare's greatest comedies, has also long been one of his favorite plays. In "The Tempest" Prospero the magician and right Duke of Milan, played by Bryan Hull, is deprived of his lands and sent to a lonely island with his daughter Miranda, Dana Lee Healey.

On the island, Prospero and Miranda find two strange servants: the brutish Calaban and the spirit Ariel. Chance and magic cause Prospero's enemies to fall into his hands. After many adventures, justice and magic triumph and Prospero returns to his rightful place with great honor and a son-in-law. The American Classical Theatre, a new company on its premier tour, has stated that one of its main goals has been "to form a company whose abilities blend into an ensemble capable of bringing to vibrant life for the audiences the great plays they might never otherwise enjoy."

Playing in Tempest

Jan Rouse and Bryan Hull will play as Miranda and Prospero in the American Classical Theatre's production of "The Tempest," Tuesday night at Lee High School.

Room for Relaxing

Three lounge areas, one of which is shown above, are wrapped around the inside corner of the new Graduate Studies Building.

Dr. Inman to Speak Friday At World Affairs Seminar

Dr. Walter Inman of the UAH faculty will discuss "England Without Empire" at the third session of the current world affairs seminar Friday.

Dr. Inman, an associate professor of history here, holds a Ph. D. from Clark University and is a specialist in English history.

The series, which is sponsored by the Short Course and Conference Activities Division, will bring a total of six distinguished speakers to UAH to discuss topics of current interest.

The seminar opened October

14 with "The Dilemma of Twentieth Century Man" by Dr. John F. Ramsey, Professor of History, at the University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa. Dr. Ramsey is a specialist in contemporary European history.

Last Friday's meeting featured Dr. Hugh Ragsdale with "The Nature of Soviet Foreign Policy". Dr. Ragsdale is also at the Tuscaloosa campus.

Senator John Sparkman, who was conditionally scheduled to discuss "Goals of American Foreign Policy" on November 4, has reported he may not be able to make it because of his schedule. In his place Colonel Edward Mohlere, U.S. Army, Ret., will speak on the same topic.

Colonel Mohlere is a graduate of West Point, M.I.T., and George Washington University. He holds an M.A. in International Affairs and is a part-time faculty member at UAH in political science.

The two final sessions, on November 11 and December 9, will be conducted by Dr. Willard Hannah and Dr. Victor D. Dubois, respectively. Both are members of the American Universities Field Staff. Having recently completed three years of research in the field, they are now spending a year lecturing at colleges that sponsor the program.

Dr. Hannah will conduct "Report from Southeast Asia" and Dr. Dubois, "Report from West Africa."

Other universities using the services of these scholars are Brown, Indiana, Kansas, Michigan State, California, Carleton, Dartmouth, Harvard, and Hawaii.

Each lecture will be given twice on the dates mentioned: once from 10:30 to noon and again 8 to 10 p.m. Both sessions will be held in the new Graduate Studies Building.

Registration fee for the series is $10. However, students who have paid their activity fee, faculty, and administration staff will be admitted without charge.

LOCAL ENTERTAINMENT

Local Movies Offer Something for Everyone

"Something for everyone" just about sums up the movies currently showing in Huntsville theaters. Not only is there variation, there is also quality, which makes it a sure thing that no matter what one decides to see, there will be long box office lines.

At the Lyric is "The Liquidator", starring Rod Taylor and Jill St. John. The movie differs from the usual "spy-thriller" type of picture, and the suspense will keep all the spy enthusiasts on the edge of their seats. You'll find this adventure an outstanding one.

The height of science fiction is featured at the Martin. "Fantastic Voyage", is a preposterous but highly entertaining adventure in which four men and a girl are reduced to microscopic size and injected into the bloodstream of a prominent scientist. Despite opposition from antibodies, white cells, and other microscopic villains, they manage to complete their assignment: the removal of an inoperable blood clot in the scientist's brain. Ridiculous? Absolutely...but so outstanding that it is one picture that shouldn't be missed.

"Dr. Zhivago" is in its first weeks of a long run at the Alabama. One will find the film just as worthy of acclaim as the novel by Boris Pasternak. The stars - Omar Shariff, Julie Christie, Geraldine Chaplin - are of top-notch caliber. For those who appreciate the musical aspect of a movie, this one is backed by a musical score work of art. "Dr. Zhivago" is among one of the finer movies that will be shown this year.

No matter which of the three you choose to see, you can be assured that you'll get full enjoyment.
