

The Historic Huntsville Quarterly

Volume 30
Number 3 The Russel Erskine Hotel

Article 1

9-22-2004

Contributors

Historic Huntsville Foundation

Follow this and additional works at: <https://louis.uah.edu/historic-huntsville-quarterly>

Part of the Historic Preservation and Conservation Commons, and the History Commons

Recommended Citation

Historic Huntsville Foundation (2004) "Contributors," The Historic Huntsville Quarterly: Vol. 30: No. 3, Article 1.

Available at: <https://louis.uah.edu/historic-huntsville-quarterly/vol30/iss3/1>

This Introduction is brought to you for free and open access by LOUIS. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Historic Huntsville Quarterly by an authorized editor of LOUIS.

Contributors

David Bowman has been writing about architecture, historic preservation, and livable places for about thirty years. His most recent book, Sewanee in Stone (Proctor's Hall Press, 2003), deals with the University of the South's 125-year-tradition of using sandstone quarried on the Sewanee mountaintop for its amiable Collegiate Gothic buildings.

Diane Ellis has been a contributor to the Quarterly since 1992. She currently edits the publication with Lynn Jones and Patricia Ryan.

Margaret Anne Goldsmith, a native Huntsvillian, was the youngest resident guest of the Russel Erskine Hotel when she, her father, and her grandparents spent their winter months there. It was her grandfather Lawrence B. Goldsmith Sr.'s idea to develop a first-class modern hotel during the 1930s. After college, Margaret Anne lived in New Orleans for a number of years where she raised her family. In the mid-1990s she returned to Huntsville to continue her family's business as president of I. Schiffman & Co. Inc.

David C. Greenberg founded the Veristar family of companies in March 2002. He has twenty-five years of hands-on property management and multi-family development experience and is knowledgeable in all facets of multi-family development and operation, particularly in the affordable housing sector. Mr. Greenberg's experience has prepared him to analyze, develop, redevelop, reposition, or asset manage and operate all types of affordable housing portfolios.

Mike Holbrook is a former general contractor who holds a master's degree in education and has almost twenty years of experience in construction and renovation. He is a Graduate Master Builder and a Certified Graduate Remodeler. Currently, he is department head for construction administration and director of quality control for Fuqua Osborn Architects in Huntsville. Mr. Holbrook is a board member of the Remodelors Council of the Huntsville-Madison County Builders Association and chairman of Historic Huntsville Foundation.

Dr. Eleanor Newman Hutchens is an eighth-generation Huntsvillian. She graduated from Agnes Scott College with majors in English and Greek and earned a master's degree and a doctor's degree in literature from the University of Pennsylvania. Dr. Hutchens taught at Agnes Scott and at the University of Huntsville in Alabama, retiring in 1979.

Leslie Tucker is the preservation coordinator of Historic Huntsville Foundation. A native of Grant, Alabama, Leslie received her master's degree in historic preservation from the Savannah College of Art and Design and worked as the preservation coordinator at Historic Savannah Foundation for two years before joining the National Trust for Historic Preservation in Washington, D.C. At the National Trust, she worked as the state and local policy analyst for four years and was responsible for researching and analyzing state and local preservation programs and policies from around the country.

Acknowledgments

The editors of the Quarterly wish to thank Gladys Oaks of the Huntsville Times and photographer Bob Gathany for the retrieval and reproduction of archived photographs used in this issue.

The Historic Huntsville Foundation gratefully acknowledges the following donors who made this expanded issue of the Quarterly possible:

David Greenberg and Philip Dotts, the principals of the New Russel Erskine, L.P.

Margaret Anne Goldsmith, in memory of her grandfather, Lawrence B. Goldsmith, Sr.

Fuqua Osborn Architects, P.C.